SUTTER REFUSES TO MAKE RECALL RACE FOR OFFICE

Not Candidate For Mayoralty, Says Man Mentioned To Oust Hart

ATTACK ON MOVEMENT MADE AT LABOR MEETING

'Effort Of Organized Few To Control Government' Says La Rose

William H. Sutter, purported recall candidate for mayor of Fresno, today declared that he is not connected with the movement, that he does not contemplate becoming a candidate, and does not authorize the circulation of any petition intended to nominate him for the office.

Backers of the recall movement recently announced that Sutter was to be the candidate to oppose Mayor Truman C. Hart in the proposed recall election, and that Harry Foster, deputy in the county auditor's office, would be a candidate for commissioner of finance.

Foster, when told of Sutter's action today, said he would remain in the race.

Makes Formal Statement
Sutter's denial that he is connected in any way with the recall movement is positive. In a signed statement to The Bee he said:

"My name having been mentioned in yesterday's paper as a prospective candidate for the position of mayor of the City of Fresno, in connection with the recall of Mayor T. C. Hart, and in connection with said recall movement, I hereby state that I do not intend to be such candidate, and do not authorize the circulation of any nomination petitions nominating me for the office."

Speaking regarding the recall at a meeting of a union labor political committee last night, E. J. G. La Rose, one of those connected with the original recall movement, declared that the present movement is one which is "nothing more than the effort of an organized few to obtain control of the municipal government."

La Rose told the committee what he declared was the "inside" story of the recall situation. Devoicing the secretary of the movement, he issued a virtual challenge to the recall proponents to "come out into the open" and let people whom they are asking to sign the recall petition know who it is that is backing the movement.

"Not Original Movement"
The present recall movement is not that which was originally initiated against Mayor Hart by myself and a number of associates," La Rose said today, "but is one which was started while the backers of the original recall movement were waiting for the recall election to be promised by John E. Sutter and a purported representative of Dr. C. F. Dickinson, who asked that someone launching the movement within three weeks subsequent to November 10th."

Harding Signs Bill Increasing Payments As Gift To Vets

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—As a Christmas present to Civil and Mexican War veterans and widows, President Harding today signed the Bonus Bill, increasing the pensions of veterans from $50 to $75 a month and widows from $50 to $75.

A number of Civil War veterans, headed by Colonel John McElroy, department commander, District of Columbia, G. A. R., stood about the president's desk as he affixed his signature to the bill. The measure was hurried through congress in order that it might reach the president in time to be effective by Christmas.

Bloody Christmas Ireland Is Labeled As Rebels Ignore Warning

Bombing Continues Despite Government's Ultimatum That Prisoners Will Be Executed In Reprisal For Outrages; Persons Found On Railroad Property To Be Shot On Sight

(By United Press)
DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—Persons on railroad property without authorization were ordered shot on sight by the free state government as the result of the fresh outbreaks of incendiarism and bombing by Republican insurgents. A bloody Christmas was feared as the rebels ignored an ultimatum that four of their number now in prison and condemned to death would be executed if outrages continue. Free state troops continued to storm Republican strongholds, casualties resulting.

Eight civilians, including a mother and daughter, were wounded when insurgents in a motor lorry raced through Cork, bombing the streets. One man was killed and two women and a free state private were wounded when government troops attacked armed rebels in Dorset Street stronghold.

Drastic Steps Taken
In the face of these orders, the free state took more drastic steps to protect the railways. Rebels threatened a Christmas offensive to demolish traffic.

Blockhouses were established along the rights of way at intervals of every two miles and two hundred troops were assigned to each. Rebels have raided trains at Four Corners in South Ireland in the last twenty-four hours.

Amnesty Proposal
The free state was today reported to offer amnesty to imprisoned insurgents, providing the latter will not again bear arms against the government and accept the curfew order.

Many rebel leaders predicted this would be met by defiance from the men in prison. Refusal to lift the curfew for the holiday celebration was strongly protested by Cardinal Logue. The restriction would prohibit midnight Christmas mass but the cardinal declared it would be celebrated regardless.

GIFT FOR VETERAN
SPRINGFIELD (O.), Dec. 23.—No more work and a pension is the Pennsylvania Railway's Christmas gift to Samuel Dadds, local ticket agent. Dadds has served the company continuously for fifty years.

STOLEN TO BUY GIFT
BOWLING GREEN (Ky.), Dec. 23.—The juvenile court today released Sammy Jennings, 6, when he returned 74 cents and a confetti bag he had stolen from the first grade collection box.

The pupils in Sammy's class had put their pennies in a box to be given to the Red Cross to buy Christmas presents for the poor. "I wanted to buy a present for teacher," Sammy told the court.

SANTA 'ALIMONY' CLUB GUEST
CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Santa Claus is to pay a visit to the "alimony" club.

Judge Timothy Hurley, acting as personal agent of St. Nick, declared today he will return all husbands who are members of the club to their wives for Christmas.

"This is the one day in the year when I give to the husbands who have brought them into court might make up. I'm going to turn these fellows loose and give them a chance," he said.

JUDGE IS DONOR
SALINAS (Cal.), Dec. 23.—Four months in the county jail instead of an indeterminate term in San Quentin was the Christmas gift given "Dr." M. J. Hunter here today, who pleaded guilty to passing worthless checks. Judge J. A. Hardin was the donor.

Hunter was arrested here October 20th, while motoring south on a honeymoon trip with his bride, formerly Miss Blanche Skaggs of San Francisco.

SUN-MAIDS NOW FINDING WAY TO WORLD'S CORNERS

Sales Reports Of Raisins Received Here In Over 20 Languages

HOME MARKET IS NO LONGER BIG ENOUGH

Value-Of Advertising Graphically Shown By Sales Reports

By E. W. DOUGLAS
When the first sun of 1923 rises its rays will find the dimpled smile of millions of Sun-Maids in virtually every country of the world, from the heart of the Congo to the ice-bound reaches of Alaska.

On the desk of the sales and advertising manager of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers to-day are sales reports in more than twenty languages, and the field of the association's product is increasing daily.

"The market of the United States and Canada will no longer consume the increasing raisin tonnage," said J. A. Brogdon, sales manager, "and by going into the world markets and cashing in on our advertising in the United States, Canada and England can we dispose of the raisin product of the San Joaquin valley. The wisdom of the association managers in co-operating and persisting in an advertising policy of this kind is now bearing fruit."

South American Offices
The association has opened offices in the Argentine, a carload of raisins and a carload of Sun-Maids is en route to that territory. An office has been opened in Montevideo, the capital of Uruguay, and a carload of Sun-Maids is in transit now. The association is preparing to open an office at Buenos Aires, and its South American representative is in that wealthy city now.

Central and South American countries are being opened by the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers, and according to J. J. Quinn, manager of foreign sales, goods are beginning to show repeat orders, and sales are increasing very effectively with the association in its sales work.

Even in Mexico City dealers are recognizing the value of advertising, said Brogdon today, and one of the biggest bakeries in that city has bought a large quantity of Sun-Maids and is giving them away to advertise raisins in raisin bread.

Negotiations are under way for sales connections in Central America, Colombia and Venezuela, which should be consummated early in the new year, according to Quinn.

The association has placed an agency in Peru and Bolivia and the sales department is anticipating substantial orders from those territories early in January.

Correspondence is now being carried on with Calcutta, India, for that part of India contiguous to Calcutta and the Punjab territory. The association is preparing to develop its sales in India and Java, and it is expected that both countries will be opened in about ninety days.

Preparatory to pushing Sun-Maids sales in Australia, the association is now negotiating with a big importing concern of that country to cover the entire continent. Negotiations are also being conducted with a big importing firm in Cairo, Cairo and the Sudan.

World-Wide Effect
The quality and integrity of the Sun-Maid brand is already established and recognized in every English-speaking country of the world, advertising in the United States, England and Australia has produced a world-wide effect, according to Brogdon. Up to a few months ago the Sun-Maid advertising was confined to the English language but today it is being conducted in nearly a score of languages.

The success of foreign development of Sun-Maids sales is credited by Brogdon to the quality of the foundation on which the sales and advertising is based.

GROWING DEMAND FOR CALIFORNIA FRUIT PRODUCTS

Stocks Are Low In Big Centers, Business Increasing

PEACH GROWERS HEAD TELLS OF CONDITIONS

Renewed Buying Activity Is Reported By All Jobbing Centers

"Stocks of California products are especially light in the principal jobbing centers of the country," the report of a steady demand brought back to the market during the winter for all dried fruits, raisins and nut products.

This is the message of a survey of the market by J. F. Niswander, president and general manager of the California Peach and Fig Growers, after a survey of the eastern and southern states after a period of several weeks.

Niswander attended a meeting of the national conference of farmer's co-operative associations in Washington on December 15th and 16th.

The activities of that association and its plans will be of great value to growers throughout the country. Particularly in the north, growers of the valley in the report Niswander brings back on business conditions of the East.

He said today: "The trade in an excellent condition. Peach and fig stocks are generally very light, yet all anticipate a big demand for all food products during the winter and spring months. This means there must be renewed buying activity in the principal markets after the holiday period."

Jobbers Optimistic
"The jobbing trade everywhere is unusually optimistic, due to improved conditions throughout the country. Financial and industrial conditions are much better than six months ago, and are constantly improving. The agricultural interests are showing the greatest signs of improvement of a permanent nature."

Particularly in the north, the sale of the sections producing cotton and tobacco. These products are finding a ready market at good prices, and cotton is now selling at 25 cents a pound.

"It is very interesting to note that great progress is being made in forming co-operative associations among the cotton and tobacco growers. This year fully 50 per cent of these great agricultural products will have been marketed through co-operative marketing associations similar to our California organizations."

Conference At Lausanne Adjourns Until After Holidays
LAUSANNE, Dec. 23.—Christmas finds Turkey and Christiania deadlocked in the Near East peace conference over the fate of Christian minorities in Turkey territory.

The conference has adjourned over the holidays. Margus Corzon remaining here to keep in touch with Ismet Pasha, Turk delegate. Meetings will be resumed Tuesday.

In the final session before adjournment the French delegate, La Roche, appealed to the Turks to feel the Christmas spirit and make concessions.

"The Turks don't give Christmas presents," retorted Edouard Bey.

Suspicious Bank Notes Traced By Officials
BALTIMORE (Md.), Dec. 23.—Secret service agents were called today to trace a bank note passed at a local restaurant which bore the same serial numbers as those stolen from the Denver mint by bandits.

Investigation revealed the notes passed here were treasury certificates. Those stolen were federal reserve notes.

FRESNO MAN IS SLATED FOR RAIL COMMISSION JOB

Percy C. Church Strong Candidate For Stephens' Appointment

SACRAMENTO BEE BUREAU.
Dec. 23.—Percy C. Church, Fresno attorney and strong supporter of the Stephens administration, is a formidable contender for one of the railroad commission appointments within the power of Governor Wm. D. Stephens, according to reliable information at the capital.

It was learned today Church is among those who are seeking appointments to fill the two vacancies on the commission, occasioned by the death of Harvey D. Loveland and Sam E. Stephens, this month of the term of H. Stanley Benedict.

Howell To Resign
Chester Howell has assured the governor he will resign from the commission in favor of the selection of his successor by the present administration, and in this event, Governor Stephens will be in position before his term expires to appoint a controlling number of the commission.

Others Recommended
Others who are said to have made application for appointment to commission are: J. J. Stephens, strongly recommended to the governor; Senator Luman M. King, author of King Tax Bill; San Bernardino Senator W. J. Carr; Stephens' Southern California campaign manager, Los Angeles; Kent Parrot, attorney, Los Angeles; C. D. Marx, Stanford University professor, San Francisco; A. J. Kisch, Cowlitz; Charles A. Bodwell, Santa Rosa.

Percy C. Church, local attorney and son of Judge George E. Church, stated today that he has consented to be one of the three railroad commissioners to be appointed by the governor.

He was approached by friends in Fresno, San Francisco and Los Angeles, including members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization.

Church said he had no knowledge of his chance for the appointment.

DRIVE ON LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN U. S. CAPITOL ORDERED

Senate Leaders Demand A Clean Up Of Conditions Said To Prevail

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—A campaign against bootleggers in the United States capital building—has been ordered by senate leaders.

The capitol police in view of the bootlegging activities, have been warned to use their powers to break up any attempt to purvey booze within the capitol—by the senate or house office buildings.

Diplomats in Washington will not be lacking in Christmas cheer. Within the last two weeks the foreign representatives, excepting their privilege of immunity from the prohibition law, have received about $50,000 worth of choice liquors.

POLICE ISSUE WARNING
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—Christmas is going to be pretty dry, but New Year's will be drier, according to Police Officer H. H. Dolley, who is gathering his forces for a drive against Christmas and New Year's cheer.

Dolley issued special warning against carrying "hot Christmas cheer" around in automobiles in spite of the fact that United States Attorney Joe Burke recently ruled that automobiles could not be searched and liquor seized without a search warrant.

Dolley said that "any appreciable amount" of liquor transported in an automobile would render the car liable to confiscation.

Troops Join Police Of Three States In Drawing Net Close About Suspects

Prominent Men Included In List Of Score Or More Facing Charges Of Complicity In Killing Of Two Opponents Of Secret Organization Last August

MER ROUGE (La.), Dec. 23.—Wholesale roundup of terrorists in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana was promised today by state and federal officials probing the murder of two men by a masked mob.

Many men, prominent in this section, will be included in the list of twenty or more persons charged with complicity in the kidnaping and killing of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards last August.

Licenses of automobiles of the hooded band were issued in Arkansas and Mississippi and have furnished information on which officials prepared to round up mob members today.

Additional troops converged upon Morehouse Parish where, in a region of muddy lakes and gloomy swamps, the authority of the law is at grips with a mysterious hooded organization with power of life and death over its victims.

Another machine gun company is en route from New Orleans and two companies of infantry are on the way. They will be posted in every public building, along every road and trail, while federal agents run down the hooded terrorists.

"Lipsing, Hill Sought
The central figure in the roundup will be "Lipsing Hill," whose identity has been revealed by W. C. Andrews and "Tot" Davenport, who were beaten by the hooded band shortly before the alleged killing of Daniels and Richards.

He was identified by his speech. J. L. Daniels, another victim of the kidnapers, today identified the decomposed body of his son, Watt, dragged from La Fourche Lake yesterday, still bound with wires.

In rough pine coffins, on the floor of a vacant store in the Masonic Building, the bodies of Daniels and John L. Daniels, another victim of the kidnapers, today identified the decomposed body of his son, Watt, dragged from La Fourche Lake yesterday, still bound with wires.

The section to disarm was expected from the commander of the militiamen, who are virtually encircling the town. The bodies were dislodged from the bottom of Lake La Fourche by a terrific explosion yesterday, after the hooded band had gathered around the masked terrorists who had challenged the authority of the state.

Attempt To Hide Victims
It is believed the mob that killed them, dislodged the corpses by setting off dynamite in an attempt to hide them elsewhere and so conceal the evidence of their crime. But troops guarding Lake Cooper, near by, which was being dragged for the bodies, surrounded Lake La Fourche before the floating torsons could move along the river.

The hooded terrorists fled, but one of them dropped a bunch of keys as he ran. Search for the owner of the keys was started immediately.

Outraged Opponents
The warfare between the hooded band and the authorities of Mer Rouge dates from last August. They fought a series of battles, and the hooded band gathered around the masked terrorists who had challenged the authority of the state.

Terrorist Strike
On August 21st the masked terrorists struck. A procession of automobiles going from Bangor to Mer Rouge, following a barbecue was held up in broad daylight by another car laden across the road. Hooded men went down the long line reaching each machine.

Richards and Daniels were dragged from their cars and, with three other men thrown into an automobile and whisked away. Their three companions were tied to trees in the forest and whipped.

Daniels is said to have snatched the mask from one man's face and thrown it away. This sealed his fate and also the fate of Richards. They were carried deeper into the woods and were never seen alive again.

Search Fruitless
The search for the men continued for a week but without result. Finally, Governor Barker became interested. Troops were sent out to search for the hooded band.

Under supervision of the militia, the work of dragging Lake Cooper began, in hope of recovering the bodies. While this was going on, in the glare of acetylene lamps, an attack was made on a group of soldiers posted on a hill overlooking the lake. They opened fire and the attackers fled.

In view of later developments, this is seen as a ruse to center attention at Lake Cooper while the explosion was being set off at Lake La Fourche to dislodge the bodies. The blast at Lake La Fourche brought troops to the spot and the torsons were recovered.

Seek Victims
To-day the searchers were hunting for the weights with which the bodies were held at the bottom and also for additional wire with which the bodies were bound. Divers reported the bottom of the pool a mass of almost liquid mud so the weights may never be found.

It is believed, however, that they are iron weights; from an abandoned wagon, as two such wheels are missing from the banks of the lake where they lay for years.

Heavy Guard Placed
Troops were thick today. They were stationed on the roadways, traversed the forest and wind between the pools in the swamps. The hooded band gathered around the masked terrorists who had challenged the authority of the state.

Various tricks have been tried to mislead and even to terrify the army of men hunters, such as the mysterious appearance of flickering lights above the morass at night, but the troops are going ahead in a businesslike manner to round up the hooded menace and stamp out the masked terrorists who have challenged the authority of the state.

Boy Prevents Tragedy On Eve Of Christmas
ALAMEDA, Dec. 23.—Henry Skinner, 10, saved his sister Emma, 7, from burning to death last night when he smothered her flaming "nightie" with the table cover.

The children had gathered around the fireplace to discuss Santa Claus' possible means of entry when a spark set fire to Emma's night clothing.

Two Men Thrown Through Windshield
OAKLAND (Calif.), Dec. 23.—T. J. Farrell and E. F. Albright were thrown through the windshield of their car and painfully injured early today when it struck a truck driven by G. E. Foley, who was uninjured.

Senator Johnson's First Article Appears To-day

IN TODAY'S ISSUE of The Bee appears the first of a series of articles by Senator Hiram W. Johnson. These articles which are to be a weekly feature in The Bee, will cover interestingly the various happenings in Washington, described in Senator Johnson's inimitable style.

No man in Washington is able to interpret the legislative trend more clearly than California's senior senator; no one reads more understandingly the undercurrent of events beneath the surface. These facts coupled with Senator Johnson's clear and fascinating style will provide a wonderfully interesting series of articles for readers of The Bee.

In his first article, appearing today, Senator Johnson comments upon the economic situation in Europe and the apparent trend toward Progressivism in American politics.

The Senior Christian Endeavor of the First Christian Church met last evening in the church parlors and enjoyed a Christmas party. During the evening five trees were decorated and laden with gifts, food and clothing, brought by the members of the church. These trees will be presented to five needy families. The program was given under the direction of Miss Beale Preston and consisted of vocal solos by Miss Margaret Harnish and the singing by Miss Mary Foley. The remaining and the presenting of the trees were directed by Miss Myrtle Molahan, Miss Forrester Harkness, Mrs. G. G. Rodden and Wylie Crayford.

Next Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Blaine Rogers will receive guests at an elaborately appointed reception in her home, 1010 N. Broadway. The affair will be given at the home of Mrs. Griffith on Tulare Street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cobb will leave the first of the year for Europe, where they will pass six months, traveling.

Miss Madeline Hertweck, who has returned home from Mills College, is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hertweck. She will not return to the college. The announcement of her betrothal to Earl R. Carper of this city was made recently. The wedding has been postponed to a later date.

The longest day in the year will be June 21st, when the sun will rise at 4:25 A. M. and set at 7:52 P. M., making the day at Fresno fourteen hours and forty-three minutes.

As the sun swings back toward the north the time of day as measured between sunrise and sunset will gradually be lengthened until the vernal equinox is reached on March 21st, when the sun will rise due east and set due west and the days and nights be equal.

There is a difference in Fresno of five hours and seven minutes between the longest and the shortest days in the year.

AMONG the hostesses and visitors of the Yuletide season are upper row, left to right, Miss Betty Thomas from the University of California, Miss Madeline Hertweck from Mills College, who will remain at home, Miss Constance Black from Miss Anna Head's School; center, Miss Margaret Cosgrave, who will be a hostess next week, entertaining at the Sunnyside Country Club with a dancing party Thursday evening; lower row, left to right, Miss Doris Black from Miss Anna Head's School, Miss Ellen Louise Hume from Bishop Johnson's School in La Jolla, and Miss Helen Thomas from the University of California.

MUSIC

By ISABEL MORNE

Arthur Middleton, baritone, comes to Fresno the second night in January, with not only an enviable American reputation but also having achieved very notable success in a recent tour with Paul Allhouse in Australia.

Midleton is not only a musician's artist but his appeal is to anyone who enjoys singing. He made his operatic debut at the Metropolitan in London. He won prizes from the composers to which he attributed the results.

The results were surprising. The program consisted of modern music and the audience ascribed to certain composers which were as far removed as possible from the spirit and style of the results.

Without meaning to spread confusion in the ranks of musicians and listeners, not to forget the reviewers who would certainly be at a disadvantage if it is suggested that music useful lessons might be learned by the grown-up music lovers from anonymous concerts.

At least the music would have its rightful place of importance and be recognized by the audience as some names of the composers.

Col. Harvey Sails To Report To President

SOUTHAMPTON (England), Dec. 23.—American Ambassador Harvey sailed for New York today on the Berengaria, to report to President Harding and Secretary Hughes on the possibility of the United States taking a hand in settling the European problem.

The Berengaria was slightly damaged in a collision with the Maestri yesterday, but this did not interfere with her sailing.

TULARE BOY SCOUTS GIVE CHECK FOR $100 (By Bee Bureau)

TULARE (Tulare Co.), Dec. 23.—The Boy Scout movement in Tulare County was given added strength here yesterday when H. C. Merrill presented a check for $100 to the Boy Scout fund at the meeting of the Lions here, following an address given by Carl Carlson of Pasadena, regional secretary of the Boy Scouts, who stated that Tulare was the only county in the valley that had not funtioned in the Boy Scout activities.

A committee will be appointed by the club next week to take whatever action it deems possible.

Members of Sun-Maid's Santa No. 7, Nomads of Arvaduka, are looking forward to three lodge affairs in the immediate future, beginning with a dance Saturday evening in Central Hall, 1033 J Street. On January 2nd, there will be a special meeting with a business session followed by a social. The report of the auditing committee will be read.

Flower later came before the district attorney and asked that the charge be dismissed as the check had been made good. Two prior escapes were made in Kingsport, where he evaded police officers.

He was arrested yesterday after the case against him had been dismissed by District Attorney H. V. Clearhart. Previously, there was no retraction by the complaining witness as to the fact that the crime was committed, the only excuse for the dismissal being that he had collected by means of the use of force.

The arrest was made after the dismissal of the case owing to the fact that the warrant had not been recalled.

Visalia after Edmiston yesterday stated today that his prisoner attempted to escape just before he arrived.

Eleanor Boardman May Lose Arm As Result Of Being Bit By Camel

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—Eleanor Boardman, leading woman in Goldwyn production, may lose her right arm as a result of having been bitten by a camel while working in a desert picture at India yesterday.

The wound immediately became infected, it was said. Miss Boardman was working under direction of Rupert Hughes, novelist and screen writer at the time.

Miss Boardman, who was chosen to star a picture over a year ago in a New York contract, was at one time reported engaged to Charlie Chaplin, according to the number 7213 regarding Charlie's future matrimonial plans.

Man Released From Jail When Amount Of Bad Check Is Paid

Elmer Edmiston, jailed yesterday after two escapes from valley police, has been released from jail here on motion of the district attorney. Edmiston was jailed on a complaint signed by A. Flower, 1827 Mariposa Street on which he is alleged to have passed a bad check for $150.

CLUBS

Fruit and figs as the special products of Central California will be the contribution of the San Joaquin Valley Federation of Women's Clubs to the selection of California fruits which the California Federation of Women's Clubs is sending to Washington for the formal opening of headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The fruit will be displayed in a huge redwood bowl which the Humboldt County district will furnish. The headquarters of the federated clubs will be established in one of the old Washington homes and the formal opening will be held the second week in January. Through the courtesy and co-operation of the San-Maid Raisin Growers, the California Peach and Fig Growers and the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce, a generous sample of the two principal San Joaquin Valley products will be shipped immediately.

The Christmas cantata given last Thursday evening under direction of Mrs. Ruby Duncan Hicks of the music department of the Pastor Lecture Club concluded the 1922 program of the club. There will be no meetings during the coming week and January 3rd the club will commence its activities again.

The assembly of the high school held yesterday morning was enjoyable besides being a financial success. The door receipts amounted to $145 and other tickets sold by the P. T. A. members have not been accounted for up to this time, so that the exact amount is unknown as yet.

Mrs. T. B. Hollingsworth is the president of the P. T. A. and Mrs. E. C. Curtis was responsible for the good program given yesterday at the assembly.

It has been planned that the students will devote their portion of the money to the payment of the interest on the bond debt incurred by the student body at the time of the erection of the bleachers and athletic field, while the P. T. A. will furnish a girls' rest room and hospital at the school.

The program included vocal solos by Clarence Marsh and Miss Zaruhl Almasian, dances by Louise and Annette Gundelfinger, Barbara Smith and Leontine Noll, a recitation by Flora Wells and selections by Ted Duncan's Jazz Orchestra.

PROBE OF WOMAN'S DEATH IS ASKED

Senator King Of Utah Requests Los Angeles Police To Investigate Case

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Investigation of circumstances surrounding the death here last July of Mrs. Lela Christine Lawler of Ephraim, Utah, was asked by Senator William H. King, of Utah, in a letter to the district attorney's office today.

Mrs. Lawler died on July 17th, supposedly from suicide by chloroform poisoning. Senator King made the request on behalf of the girl's parents.

Senator King asked that Lawler be searched out and questioned. He declared that the girl was Lawler's second wife, and that two children were born to them before Lawler obtained a divorce from his first wife and married her.

Air Liner Going To Arctic

Workmen putting finishing touches on the "Polar Bear"

A hunting party of six American manufacturers and capitalists expect to leave New York next summer in the polar bear air liner, "Polar Bear." Seventy-two hours after leaving Wall Street they expect to be shooting walrus and polar bear within the Arctic circle. The party will include H. M. Uppercus, president of the Detroit Cadillac Motor Car Company; Howard M. Coffin, Harold H. Emmons,

Dr. James W. Inches, William L. Metzger and Charles P. Redden, president of the Aeromarine Airways, Inc. The proposed route will be to Montreal first, thence up the Ottawa River and the chain of lakes to Hudson Bay.

FORMER I. W. W. TO TESTIFY TUESDAY

Townsend To Take Stand Against Ten Tried For Syndicalism

SACRAMENTO (CALIF.), Dec. 22.—W. E. Townsend, former I. W. W. and chief witness in various cases against I. W. W. prosecuted under the criminal syndicalism law, will be put on the stand Tuesday in the trial of ten defendants here, it was announced today.

Townsend's testimony will be bitterly fought by the defense which promises to produce evidence in the form of affidavits that the witness charges that I. W. W. poisoned meat supplies during the war are false.

The affidavits are said to come from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Patrolman Took $500 Rings, Is Speeder's Claim

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—So terrible has the reputation of Los Angeles become in jailing speeders that Lenore Axt, according to her story, when stopped by Emergency Officer Harold F. Wood on a speeding charge, consented to his suggestion that she give him two rings valued at $500 in case he refrained from turning her over.

Wood was arrested today charged with grand larceny. It is charged that he pawned one of the rings for $35.

100 Foreigners Will Be American Citizens

Diplomas will be presented and naturalization papers handed to more than 100 foreign-born residents of Fresno City and County who have been attending special night schools, next Thursday night in the American Legion Hall. Each of these receiving American citizenship will be provided with a sponsor by the American Legion.

A class of thirty foreign born that has been preparing itself for citizenship in the Sanger Night School, will be presented with American citizenship papers by Sanger Legionaires, who will act as sponsors. Fresno Post No. 4 has agreed to furnish sponsors for each Fresno resident taking the oath of allegiance.

The committee from the Fresno Post consists of Delbert Brunton, S. J. Harrington and Will Kelly.

Bandits Hold Up Grocer And Escape With $2,500

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Adding another victim to the long list of those fleeing in sensational bank or payroll robberies during the past week, C. W. Griffith, grocer, was held up by three bandits this morning as he was taking $2,500 in a sack to deposit it in the bank.

The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Post Office Is To Be Closed To-morrow

To-morrow will be no exception to other Sundays and the Fresno Postoffice will be closed all day. Postmaster George W. Turner announced. There will be no delivery of mail, with the exception of parcels, which substitute carriers will deliver. On Christmas Day, the office business, with the exception of the money order department, will be conducted between 8 A. M. and noon. The complete delivery of mail by both city and rural carriers will be made that day.

Pickled Herring With Milk, Poison Seven

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—A pre-Christmas luncheon of pickled herring, with milk for a "chaser," resulted in poisoning for seven persons here today. The victims were Mrs. Andrew Lisko and their three children, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kudarik.

Ambulance surgeons treated the victims.

City News In Brief

Yugoslav Goes Free—Police Judge J. C. Crifton held the Christmas spirit to-day. In his expansive mood he allowed Harry Kelley, self-confessed vagrant, to go free without a sentence. Court attaches state that the cause was more than likely the resemblance of the prisoner to the Santa Claus who are parading the streets. Kelley appeared at headquarters last night and asked the police to find him a place to sleep. He was sent to jail.

New Names On Committee—The California Raisin Festival Association committee received by Manager H. E. Vinton of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce include T. P. Griffith, Fresno Traffic Association; Milton H. Poesens, Sun-Maid Raisin Growers; and Walter H. Bentley, Stockton Rotary Club.

Electrical and Mechanical Mfg. Co., Everett S. Minard, 208 Park Boulevard.

Falls to Appear in Court—Archie Lavender, the first man arrested in the city under the Wright Act, did not appear in court today. He had been released on $300 bond and will appear Tuesday. Lavender was arrested yesterday by Police Lieutenant M. R. Linkous and Inspector T. R. O'Brien and charged with transportation of liquor.

Day, Night Auto Storage—Weekly, monthly rates. Auditorium Garage, 517-521 L St.

New Yorker to Speak—Charles G. Titus of New York, a member of the foreign work committee of the day at the meeting of the Fresno Kiwanis Club at the Hughes Hotel next Thursday noon, it was announced today by C. F. Cowan, in charge of the program. Titus, who has visited many foreign countries in his work, will talk on "The Challenge of a New Day, and Will include a discussion of economic, political and moral problems in foreign lands. Plans for a new church as an extension of St. Paul's Methodist Church, south, are rapidly going forward. Rev. G. W. Fletcher announced last night.

The church has purchased five lots at Maple and Illinois Avenues, and the new site is considered very favorable to the building up of a large congregation.

Funds for the erection of a modern church plant will be raised at an early date.

Charge Dismissed—An embezzlement charge against Chester A. R. Tripp was dismissed for lack of evidence to convict by Superior Judge E. L. Woodley today. Tripp was charged with embezzling $100 from E. Giometti on last January 4th.

Guilt Denied—Pete Renna pleaded not guilty before Superior Judge E. L. Woodley today to a charge of receiving stolen property. Bond was fixed at $1,000. No date for trial was set.

Desertion Charged—Harry A. Turnbull filed suit for divorce here today against Violet Turnbull, charging desertion. According to the petition, the couple were married in Fresno in June, 1919. There are no children.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR FESTIVITIES

Celebration To Be Held At Civic Playgrounds Christmas Day

Preparations were being completed today at the six municipal playgrounds for Christmas festivities. It is estimated that more than 4,000 children will participate as guests of the playground commission and civic clubs.

Four thousand bags of candy, raisins and popcorn have been packed, platforms on which the programs will be staged are being erected, and the playground staffs are preparing decorations for the Christmas tree which will grace each playground.

Baseball will play an important part in each of the six programs. Teams representing civic organizations will play the games. A boy team from each playground. These games will be the closing numbers of the Christmas Day programs.

The festivities will begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock on the afternoon of Christmas Day, and the grounds will remain open to the children and their parents until 5:30 o'clock, during the remainder of the holiday week. The playgrounds will be open from 1:30 to 5:30 o'clock daily. Superintendent L. L. Quigley announced today.

The Boy Scouts of Fresno will participate in the festivities as impromptu policemen, and one or more troops will be stationed at each playground.

Various civic clubs will provide a member to play Santa Claus, and one to deliver a short Christmas address, as a part of each playground program.

Dr. James W. Inches, William L. Metzger and Charles P. Redden, president of the Aeromarine Airways, Inc. The proposed route will be to Montreal first, thence up the Ottawa River and the chain of lakes to Hudson Bay.

MINE PROMOTER IS CHARGED WITH CHANGING CHECK

Randsburg Operator Held On Charge Of Maricopa Man

(By Bee Bureau)
TAKESFIELD (Kern Co.), Dec. 22.—J. E. Martin, whose activities in promoting mining properties in the vicinity of Randsburg have left a long trail in the Kern County courts, was arrested on a charge of forgery by Deputy Sheriff Dues. After being locked up three hours, Martin was released on bond furnished by friends.

According to a complaint made before Justice of the Peace E. H. Musser, superintendent of the Honoluli Oil Company, Martin changed the date on a check drawn by Musser and had it cashed in a bank here. It was discovered when he went to the bank to stop payment on the check.

According to Musser, he gave the check to Martin as part payment for stock, but dated it far ahead so that it might be cancelled in the event he became dissatisfied with the transaction. Later, it is alleged, Martin returned with the check and asked to have it cashed. Martin was arrested as he was leaving Judge Howard A. Penfils' court, where a petition to have either Musser or Martin declared insane was being heard. The plea for change of venue was based on Martin's claim that he is a resident of that city.

Arguments on a motion for a receiver for properties in which Martin is interested were to have been heard, but following the order for change of venue they were transferred to the Los Angeles court.

West Fresno Social Club Is Organized At Meeting
Last Night

Charles C. Beck, president of the West Fresno Social Club, was elected temporary chairman and Jack Christian temporary secretary of the West Fresno Social Club, organized last night at a service station at Cherry and California Streets. The name of the club was also adopted temporarily and will be changed should the members see fit after the club is more fully organized. The purpose is for social activities only.

The Hospitality Center.
For a meeting place it is desired to use the Hospitality Center for the next meeting. Later when the club is strong enough it is planned to build a club house.

A committee consisting of James Hill, Henry Gross, C. Keener, F. A. Linnick and Pat Decker was appointed by the chairman to arrange to hire the Hospitality Center for an evening after the first of the year, at which time a free dance will be given to get the young people of the community together into the new club. This committee will also go before the First Ward Rate and Taxpayer's Association and ask for their support and aid in building their club into a strong organization.

Meet Next Tuesday.
These five men will draw up the constitution and by-laws for the new organization and present them at the next meeting, which will be Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the B. and M. Garage.

The charter members follow: Dan Long, Pete Decker, F. A. Linnick, Henry Gross, F. Hartman, J. Salwasser, Andrew Wolfe, Henry Winter, W. M. Forath, James Hill, Pete Schwabland, Sam Kinswater, H. E. Diehl, Henry Diehl, Dan Wagner, C. Keener, George Decker, Bob Dewar, John Kinswater, Henry Alberslager, Walter Kosmosky, Jack Christian, C. O. Beck and R. C. Martin.

Persons.
Mr. and Mrs. John Esheim of Barstow are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Esheim, 100 E. Street. They will remain here over the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heppner, Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Heppner, Peter Heppner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Litt, all of Visalia, will spend the holidays visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Damon, 510 D Street.

Robert Dewar just yesterday for Livermore where he will spend a few days on business. He will go to San Francisco, returning home after the holidays.

CHILDREN GUESTS OF JUNIOR HIGH

Nearly 800 Students Attended
Christmas Program
Friday

Seventy children of the Lincoln School kindergarten were the guests of the S-B (1) and S-B (2) grades of the Edison Junior High School, who, under the direction of Miss Nellie Hooper and Miss Adella Tompkins, teachers of the two grades, gave a pleasing Christmas program in the auditorium of the school yesterday.

Nearly 800 children and their parents attended. As a surprise to the kindergarten children, following the last number of the program, each child was given a bag of assorted candies and nuts by Santa Claus, who was assisted with the distribution by a dozen girls who took part about in the dance of the Christmas Fairies.

Features.
Possibly the feature of the entire program were the exercises, which consisted of several well known children's songs, given by the kindergarten children.

The program began with musical selections by the Edison Junior High School Orchestra.

Following is the complete program: Orchestra selections, Manzanita Three Step (Bergenholtz); and Juvenile Waltz (Bergenholtz), by the orchestra.

One act play, Christmas Box From Aunt Jane, S-B (1). The cast: Otto Schlegel, Dorothy Bauer, Robert Minor, Nellie Leong, Kenneth Grille, Rosa Delecco, Tony Gilio and Nellie De Luca.

Recitation, Santa Claus and the Mouse, by Robert Minor.

Cast of Play.
Play, Mr. St. Nicholas, by S-B (2).

The cast: Jim Teleco, Fred Wolf, Liddle Helmut, Amelia Bauer, Kate Neimeler, Dorothy Bauer, Nick Tancredi, Walter Richert, Joe Benna and Patsy La Centra.

Exercise by the children of the Lincoln Kindergarten.

Dance of the Christmas Fairies, by girls from both grades.

A combined Christmas program was given by the Lincoln School, under the direction of Miss Charlotte Golden and Mrs. McKelvey, teachers of the respective grades, yesterday afternoon. Many of the children's parents were guests.

All of the rooms were decorated and several had Christmas trees.

Program of S-B.

Break Into Store To Get Food; Are Jailed

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—They started out to see the world. John Taggart and Bernard Nelson, formerly of Chicago, and Superior Judge Hoover when they pleaded guilty to a burglary charge.

But instead of seeing the world, they landed in the Los Angeles County Jail after their associates had gotten the best of them and they broke into a store in San Bernardino to get food.

The two boys started from Chicago several weeks ago and made their way by various means to San Bernardino. Until they reached California they had managed to satisfy their hunger by begging. They declared in court that they were forced to break into a store in San Bernardino to get food.

San it was they declared, that they came to break into a grocery store in San Bernardino. They were caught in the act of making a meal on crackers by a policeman, who took them to court.

Arraigned before Judge Hoover, they pleaded guilty and after a hearing were sent to the reformatory at Lone to learn a trade. Thus in place of seeing the world, they are in reform school for at least two years and learn a lawful way of earning a living. They

Man The Pumps.
New Hospital Battle Cry

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—"Man the pumps" will be the first battle cry in many cases here from now on, under the ruling made today by Dr. Edmund Butler, chief surgeon of the San Francisco emergency hospital.

All patients entering emergency hospitals here suffering from acute alcoholism will first have their stomachs pumped out. This order is due to the large number of cases of blindness, paralysis and other permanent disabilities caused by the poison found in the blood of alcoholics.

The stomach pump is the first and most efficient antidote for such "hook."

STEINMETZ FOR MONIST INDUSTRY

He Would Give Workers Share
In Dividends And Representation As Directors

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 23. The early promise of American prosperity depends upon the harmonizing of two requirements—industry must be organized so as to guarantee to the employee a living wage, and to capital a fair and continuous return—said Charles Steinmetz, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company, tonight at the third of a series of public open forum meetings at the South Tularian Church. Speaking under the auspices of the Schenectady Chapter of the Unitarian Laymen's League, of which he is a member, Dr. Steinmetz defined the goal of industrial co-operation as the elimination of the alternate periods of depression and inflation.

Classifying the various plans of industrial co-operation as dualistic and monistic, Dr. Steinmetz argued to the advantage of the monistic plan, which, he stated, endeavors to unify capital and labor completely, by having both participate in the profits through dividends, and in the management through boards of directors. In approaching his solution he specified three possible points of view:

1. Capital: The industry is the private property of the capitalist owner, and labor and the public have no rights nor duties. The only relation between employer and employee is the labor contract, complete in itself, and not subject to collective bargaining. Labor thus is a commodity controlled by the law of supply and demand. If the labor supply exceeds the demand, the price of labor must be forced below a living wage and masses of unemployed may starve without anybody being responsible. Inversely, if the demand exceeds the supply, labor may force its wages up to the destruction of the industry without any consideration of the public.

2. Socialism: All values are created by labor; therefore, labor is entitled to the full value of its product and capital has no right to any part of the product of labor; but capital, by securing control of all the means of production, is able to exploit labor by exacting a tribute from it. "As only a small percentage of Americans accept this viewpoint today, we must be justified or not leave it out of consideration here."

3. Co-operation: Capital and labor are necessary for industrial production, and both, therefore, have rights and duties in the industry.

"As this viewpoint is increasingly gaining ground among the industrial leaders," he declared, "I shall consider the industrial relations from this viewpoint, but I do not claim that the following necessarily represents my personal opinion, nor that it involves a moral issue, but rather gives the logical conclusions from the viewpoint of co-operation between capital and labor, as the necessary foundation of industrial efficiency."

"It means that the industry must be organized so as to guarantee to the employee a living wage, afford a minimum American standard of living, and continuity of employment, but it also means—which is not always realized—that the industry must guarantee to capital a fair return, sufficient to attract it, and continuity of this return. The problem then arises to harmonize these two requirements and to reorganize our country's industrial system so as to eliminate the alternate periods of depression and inflation."

Must Come By Evolution.
"In this it must be realized that our industrial system is so complex that any such change or radical modification is liable to be disastrous, and the transition to industrial co-operation therefore must be gradual by evolution."

Two main difficulties in bringing about industrial co-operation are: The industrial leaders, representing capital, and even necessity of the industrial co-operation, do not always realize that co-operation implies two parties coming together, but sometimes are tempted to want a plan of organization, and then expect labor to co-operate in the plan devised by capital. This obviously is not co-operation, but paternalism. On the other hand, it is difficult and slow to develop real co-operation, where one of the parties, labor, does not yet see the desirability of co-operation, and therefore is antagonistic and suspicious, disinclined to accept the responsibility toward the industry which is the inevitable reverse of the rights in the industry.

"Coming now to the various plans of industrial co-operation, they may be classified as monistic or dualistic, with innumerable intermediate forms."

"In dualistic co-operation, capital, as heretofore, is represented in the board of directors, and receives its share of the profits as dividends; labor has a separate organization for representation elected by the employees, dealing with the problems of special importance to labor; arbitration of grievances, working conditions, wages and hours. This arrangement has found considerable success abroad. It has many advantages, but also certain disadvantages, over the monistic arrangement, which endeavors to unify completely labor and capital by having them both, in some form or other participate in the profits of the company through dividends, and in the management of the company through the board of directors."

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 23.—Dr. Horace Grant of Atlanta has been elected president of the National Order of Pipe Smokers.

Dr. Grant is the founder of the organization, which has for its motto, "Tolerance, Peace and Unity." The president emphasized the principles of tolerance and peace as descriptive of the pipe smokers' state of mind and how the sedative influence of a good smoke tends to allay all the baser emotions of man.

Music Urged As Means Of Bringing Peace To Erin.
DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—"Sing, don't shoot," was the advice given to Irishmen by Madame Tietz, famous opera singer, when she visited here recently.

"I think it is a great pity Ireland should be disturbed as it is," she said in an interview, "but I hope internal quarrel, and I hope Irishmen will soon all be friends and the present trouble will pass like all squabbles do in sensible families. A love and understanding of music can do much to restore happiness and remove discord amongst the people."

KIDNAPING JURY AT MODESTO IS UNABLE TO AGREE

District Attorney Insists Strikers Will Be Tried Again For Offense

MODESTO (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—The jury which has been trying the case of George M. Smith, G. Hammond, R. J. Nicholson, D. Louis and Paul Burton, striking Santa Fe shopmen of Riverbank, charged with kidnaping Clarence Bradford, shop foreman, on July 19th, disagreed and was discharged by Superior Judge J. C. Needham at 11:30 last night.

The vote of the jury when it was called into court was said to be eight to four for acquittal and when interrogated by the court as to the possibility of reaching an agreement, resulted in the negative. The jury had been out since early in the afternoon.

Will Try Men Again
District Attorney W. J. Brown, declared that the men would be tried again, he said. "Juries can turn them loose if they want to, but the district attorney won't. His testimony was introduced favoring Smith, Louis or Hammond and the only testimony submitted in favor of Burton and Nicholson was to the effect that they were elsewhere, has not been substantiated. Hammond's evidence indicated that he went along with the party to protect Bradford."

Date Not Set
The date for the second trial of the five men who were charged with Clarence Waddy of kidnaping Bradford from the shops in Riverbank, and taking him several miles out on a lonely road in an automobile, and warning him not to return, on the night of July 19th.

Waddy was discharged, as he furnished a satisfactory alibi.

Teahachapi Bridge At Bena Reported Burned
BAKERSFIELD (Kern Co.), Dec. 22.—Word has been received at the local branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California that the Teahachapi bridge over the Kern River at Bena was burned out. It is reported that light touring cars can go through the ditch over which the bridge was suspended. But that heavy cars and trucks cannot make the passage, it being necessary to take the White Wolf grade road.

Superior J. I. Wray went to the scene of the fire to arrange for re-establishment of the bridge. The cause of the fire could not be ascertained.

VISALIA (Tulare Co.), Dec. 22.—Martin Heberling has been chosen commander of Visalia Post No. 31, American Legion, for the ensuing year. Other officers chosen by the post at its last meeting were:

First Vice-Commander, Wayne Smith; second vice-commander, James Barish; adjutant, Richard Duran; treasurer, H. S. Spencer; chaplain, Rev. Douglas T. Reed; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Sprague; historian, C. Bradley; executive committee, Fred H. Hoyer, George Schumy, L. E. Shuttler, Norman C. Wolff and G. W. Lake.

Visalia Girl Saves Building From Flames

VISALIA (Tulare Co.), Dec. 22.—The Jacobs Block, in the heart of the city's business district was saved from fire yesterday evening by the prompt action of Miss Mabel Goddard, stenographer for the Redbanks Orchard Company, who, upon entering a storeroom in the building for supplies, discovered flames head high on three sides of the room. Instead of becoming confused and excited, Miss Goddard sought and found water and unassisted extinguished the flames, then called the fire chief on the telephone and told him about it.

TREE PRUNING IS DEMONSTRATED BY COLLEGE EXPERT

Orchardists Of Fresno County Given Lessons In Best Methods

Citrus and deciduous tree pruning methods were demonstrated to the orchardists of Fresno County this week by specialists sent into the county by the College of Agriculture, University of California. Best methods of irrigation practice also were discussed at conferences held in the offices of the Farm Adviser Thursday and Friday.

According to Dr. John E. Benson, farm adviser, the meetings were well attended by the growers of the county, who evinced a keen interest in the demonstrations and gained information of considerable value in the best orchard methods.

Apple Pruning Demonstrated
On the same day G. L. Philip of the division of pomology at Berkeley demonstrated the proper methods of pruning apple trees at Squaw Valley in the morning and Dunlap in the afternoon. The next morning he gave a demonstration at Prather, which was followed by that afternoon by the pruning of young prune and peach trees at Aubrey.

Irrigation Problems Talked
At an office conference participated in by the farm adviser and his aides Thursday and Friday irrigation problems in Fresno County were discussed. J. B. Brown, irrigation extension specialist from Berkeley, led in this discussion.

Dinuba Girls Made Juvenile Court Wards
VISALIA (Tulare Co.), Dec. 22.—Juvenile Judge J. A. Allen has ordered Lillian Moore, 17, and Maud Scarborough, 16, of Dinuba, wards of the court following a hearing which resulted from a trip made by the girls with two youthful Dinuba boys, Nels Weare and Robert Hayes, to Idaho Falls, Idaho, in a car said to have been stolen from a Dinuba rent car man. The girls were sent back to their parents' home.

January 2nd has been set by Judge Allen as the time for pronouncing sentence upon the boys. In the meantime the boys were released on $500 bail each after their mothers had told the court they had made good a return of checks drawn in Riverside and said they would pay for the stolen Ford car which the boys sold in Salt Lake City.

COALINGA MERCHANTS TO OPERATE ON GIFTS
COALINGA (Fresno Co.), Dec. 22.—The Business Men's Association has begun the distribution of art calendars to their patrons. Through the efforts of President C. E. Whitney and Secretary J. H. show the association agreed to purchase only one calendar to represent the entire community. It is estimated that the merchants saved through this co-operative effort about $8,000.

About 2,500 were ordered and each would require to accommodate their trade and were assessed pro rata. If this means of distributing calendars proves successful the practice will be continued.

NIGHT ASSAILANT CHOKES AND ROBS MAN AT MODESTO

Laborer Is Victim Of Prowler, Leaves Him Unconscious After Attack

MODESTO (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—Police here are investigating the story told by George Hess, 35, a laborer, who reported he had been choked into unconsciousness in his room at a local hotel after a nocturnal had been administered, here late yesterday. When he regained his senses, he discovered that his purse containing $122 had been stolen, he claimed. Hess stated to the police that he was awakened by the clasp of cold hands around his throat, and that he is sure that the nocturnal was administered. He said everything went blank, and he could not call for help. His assailant was a large, powerful man, he claims.

Blood stains were found on the floor, walls and the door knob of Hess' room, and on the walls of the hallway, which the police state indicate the man who entered the room had injured himself during the attack on Hess.

The empty purse belonging to Hess was found in the shed in the rear of the hotel by S. P. Klinear.

WORK TO START JANUARY 1 ON COALINGA ROAD

Representative Of Contractor Tells Of Early Beginning Of Construction

COALINGA (Fresno Co.), Dec. 22.—Work on the first unit of the Coalinga lateral of the Sierra-to-the-Sea Highway will be started January 1, G. D. Camp of Sacramento, who will be in charge of the work, announced here yesterday, upon his arrival as the representative of C. Miles, who was awarded the contract for the road. The work consists of the grading of the 5.5 miles between Coalinga and Parkfield Junction, and has been authorized by the state highway commission.

Following the report that reached here after the opening of the contractor's bid on December 11th to the effect that the contract would not be awarded, due to a lack of funds, the arrival in Coalinga of the contractor's representative threw a gratifying ray of light in the camp of the local highway committee of the chamber of commerce, which has made such a long and hard fight to have work started on the new road.

At the Hanford meeting Wednesday evening, the board of supervisors of this county stated that $45,000 had been set aside for the construction of the bridge and culverts along the route and that the county was ready to start their construction at the demand of the state highway department.

The county committee, composed of two representatives each from Fresno, Tulare and Kings Counties, appointed at the Hanford meeting, will meet next Tuesday at the Hanford Hotel. The Trade quarters to permanently organize and formulate the plan of action as outlined at the Hanford meeting Wednesday. Because of the fact that it was impossible for Monterey County to have representatives at the Wednesday meeting, that county will not be represented at the committee meeting in Hanford Wednesday, but the chamber of commerce of that county will be advised of the actions of the committee and requested to co-operate as far as weather conditions will permit.

TEHACHA PLUGS SUPPORT
TEHACHA (Kern Co.), Dec. 22.—F. V. Dewey, chairman of the highway committee of the Hanford Board of Trade, speaking at the local junction of the Coast Club building here, stated that the Sierra-to-the-Sea Highway had been "throttled" by the state officials, and declared that only organized efforts on the part of Kings, Fresno and Tulare counties would make the completion of the road possible.

HOLIDAY PARTY IN CRASH OF AUTOS
TUOLUMNE (Tulare Co.), Dec. 22.—With fruit still moving from this district, a total of 10 cases of oranges have been shipped from this section to date, according to information issued by the office here of the Tulare County Citrus Association.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AT SELMA NOMINATES DIRECTORS FOR 1923
SELMA (Fresno Co.), Dec. 22.—With the close of the year, and counting of primary ballots for nomination of candidates for 1923 directors of the Selma Chamber of Commerce last night, the official count showed the following were nominated: Bert A. Statham, John C. Borden, Sam H. Gill, Roy C. Gibbs, Ben F. Shipley, Mayo R. Carrington, Herman H. Lehman, Joe W. Berry, W. E. Butler, C. W. Chapman, J. J. Vanderburgh and J. H. McKillop.

Of this number, six will be elected on the first ballot that will be mailed to old and new members beginning at once, the election to close at 7 P. M. Wednesday evening, December 27th.

Attractive Homes, Boast Of Clovis

Seven Churches And Three Schools Serve City

HOMES, churches and schools are the foundations of the prosperity of Clovis. Below is a view of the Clovis Grammar School (upper) one of the two which form the Clovis High School District. The Potter Memorial Methodist Church (center) is the outgrowth of the first church established in the community more than twenty-five years ago, when Clovis as a city was unknown; the home of A. C. Beaumont (lower) is one of the many which combine to make Clovis a beautiful residential city.

CLOVIS (Fresno Co.), Dec. 22.—Clovis, northeast of Fresno, is proud of her homes, churches and schools, which combine to make of the city an ideal residential community.

The first church was established in the community more than twenty-five years ago by J. W. and Martha Potter, sturdy pioneers, who were responsible for the establishment of the city. The Potter Memorial Methodist Church, built at a cost of $20,000, with funds from the Potter estate, is the outgrowth of the humble wooden structure which formed the place of worship for the first settlers in this community.

CITY OF 2,500 INHABITANTS
Clovis now has seven churches, which serve a city of approximately 2,500 population.

The Clovis High School District is composed of two grammar school districts. A large number of foreign-born children are taught in the Clovis schools, and a special teacher is maintained to give instruction in Americanism. The high school building was erected two years ago, while the Clovis Grammar School was built in 1912.

NEW HOMES BUILT IN YEAR
A number of new homes have been built in Clovis during the past year. At present two residences are under construction. The large number of attractive, comfortable homes the city affords has long been a boast of Clovis' citizens.

The paving of all streets in the business district and a number of residential streets in the vicinity of the city have been completed. The paving connects with the highway on both borders of the city.

Some of the packing houses still are shipping as high as two to three cars per day, but the peak of shipments has been passed and the fruit has been moving. Practically no picking is being done at this time.

CHURCHES OF HANFORD WILL GIVE PROGRAMS

Christmas Entertainments Are Planned By All Denominations

HANFORD (Kings Co.), Dec. 22.—In keeping with the usual custom, the churches of this city will remember the Christmas season with appropriate programs to be given Sunday, at which the children and pupils of the Sunday schools will have the leading parts.

At the Christian and First Presbyterian Churches something of an innovation is offered in what is known as a White Christmas, the program providing for an offering of gifts from the different departments and classes of the Sunday schools to some charitable institution.

The gifts from the Presbyterian Church will go to the Presbyterian Home at San Antonio Sunday evening, at the First Presbyterian Church, in addition to the White Christmas program, the cantata, "Night In The Orient," will be sung by a choir of sixty voices.

Methodist Program
At the First Methodist Church the choir will render a sacred concert at the Sunday morning service, and in the evening the Sunday school will give a Christmas program, and a Christmas tree will bear gifts for young and old.

At the Episcopal Church, Friday evening was selected for the Christmas remembrance, and in addition to a splendid program of music and readings, a Christmas tree delighted the young folks of the Sunday school. Light refreshments were also served.

Nativity Presentation
At the First Baptist Church the feature of the special Christmas program will be living pictures, depicting the Nativity and, in addition, the children of the Sunday school will render a program of readings and appropriate songs.

This program will commence at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. At the Sunday morning service the choir will render a program of special Christmas music.

At St. Bridget's Catholic Church the Christmas celebration will commence Saturday night with mass and special prayer, and the impressive programs arranged will continue through Sunday and up to midnight. At midnight Sunday solemn high mass will be celebrated.

Christmas Morning at 10:30 o'clock there will be rendered a cantata with special music by the soloists, members of the Knights of Columbus will have a part in the Christmas program.

SECOND HARLOW TRIAL SET FOR FEBRUARY 14TH

North Fork Slayer To Face Wife-Murder Charge Again

MADERA (Madera Co.), Dec. 22.—George A. Harlow, slayer of Clara E. Harlow, his wife at their home at North Fork, will again go to trial on a charge of murder in the supreme court here February 14th. The trial date today was set by Judge Stanley A. Murray.

The third trial of the case commenced all but one day of last week and two days of this week. The jury, which heard the evidence, failed to agree upon a verdict and is understood to have voted eight to four on the final of twelve ballots for acquittal. Insanity was the defense offered by Harlow.

The killing of Mrs. Harlow occurred during her only morning hours of October 22nd when Harlow claims he returned home and found his wife in bed with Howard Blanchard, a North Fork youth. Blanchard had accompanied Mrs. Harlow home from a Saturday night dance while Harlow was at work on the night shift in a power plant. Mrs. Harlow was beaten to death with a shotgun, which Harlow used as a club.

Garland Endorsed For Postmastership In City Of Oakdale
OAKDALE (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—W. M. Garland has received the endorsement of the Republican County Central Committee for the postmastership at Oakdale to take the place of W. S. Boddy, whose term of office has already expired. Miss Birdie Rickard, the present assistant postmistress, who also is a candidate for the position, received four votes while Garland received four.

Garland, Miss Rickard and Boddy all took the examination required by the civil service of applicants for the position. Boddy getting the highest mark with Miss Rickard second and Garland third, but all were successful in passing the test required. Boddy having been a life long Democrat was not considered by the Republican Central Committee when making their endorsement.

Garland has been a resident of Oakdale for a little more than two years. He was born in Angels where he served on the board of supervisors for more than twenty years.

Visalia Woman Gets Sentence On Bad Check Charge
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Mrs. Charlotte Small Pettibone of Visalia was sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary by Judge Shank, who revoked probation formerly given her on a felony charge in 1920.

She has three small children now living in Visalia. A charge of passing worthless checks is being pending against her, which caused the county probation officer to ask revocation of probation.

MRS. BARRATTI DENIED RELEASE

Woman Accused Of Husband's Murder Must Remain In Jail

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Grace Chesney Barratti, widow of Harry Barratti, musician, who was mysteriously shot to death in their O'Farrell street apartment on the evening of December 2 last, must spend the Christmas holidays in the city prison.

Mrs. Barratti appeared before Police Judge Daniel S. O'Brien yesterday for a preliminary hearing on the charge of murder preferred by Joseph Melitz, step father of Barratti.

Release Asked. J. R. Zimmers, attorney for Mrs. Barratti and her former employer, asked that she be admitted to bail, basing this motion upon the verdict of the coroner's jury, which on Thursday evening found that she was in no way responsible for her husband's death.

As the coroner's jury had brought in three separate verdicts, Judge O'Brien held that the state should be permitted to adduce further evidence before Mrs. Barratti be admitted to bail. Zimmers insisted that the state had already submitted all of its evidence before the coroner's jury but Judge O'Brien insisted that Zimmers was not qualified to speak for the prosecution.

Suicide Belief. Following a three days' inquiry the coroner's jury on Thursday evening found an unanimous verdict that the evidence adduced had in no way placed responsibility for Barratti's death upon his wife.

In a second verdict found by six of the jurors it was found that he had committed suicide and in a third verdict found by four of the jurors it was held that his death was due to unknown causes and a further investigation was urged.

Mrs. Barratti insists that her husband shot himself while she was in the kitchen of their apartment arranging the laundry. The police believe it would have been difficult for Barratti to have inflicted the wounds which caused his death.

Einstein Test Plates Arrive Unbroken For Theory Investigation

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—It will be two or three months before any conclusions regarding the Einstein test of relativity can be reached through a study of the total eclipse of the sun made in Australia, September 21st. Professor W. W. Campbell of Lick Observatory told members of the Commonwealth Club yesterday.

Professor Campbell said that the photographic plates of the eclipse made at that time had just been unpacked at the Lick Observatory and it would be many weeks before mathematicians could figure out the astronomical data.

In his address to the club on the expedition he made to Australia to study the eclipse, Professor Campbell declared the observations made were not wholly to prove or disprove Einstein's idea, but to study in general the sun and its corona. "Einstein's theory," he said, "is that Newton's law of gravitation must be supplemented or added to, to some extent, to hold good in the solar system. This part of his theory is that the stars are not always where they seem because the gravitation of the sun bends the rays of light from the stars."

News From Bay District

President Refuses.—Robert S. Finney presided over his last meeting of the One Hundred Per Cent Club at luncheon in the Palace Hotel in San Francisco yesterday. The newly elected president, Clarence W. Beamer, praised the work done by the club under Finney's leadership. A Christmas address was delivered by Dr. E. B. Cochran, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Alameda. Supervisor William S. Scott sang "I Love You, California."

Salesman Must Pay.—Judge Graham rejected Mrs. Balvina Newman's plea for attorney in San Francisco Court but in its place he decreed that the husband Jack Newman, shall give his wife $75 as a Christmas present. "And if you don't," Judge Graham told Newman, "beware of the alimony decree that will follow." Mrs. Newman, who is suing for divorce, asked $25 a month temporary alimony. She alleged that he neglected to provide for her, took her money, drank, struck her and swore at her. He is a salesman.

"Trust" Cases Relayed.—Hearing of charges against twenty-five San Francisco individuals and ten corporations engaged in the business of dealers supplies that they had conspired to evade the Cartwright anti-trust law, was continued until next Tuesday by Superior Judge Ward. More than seventy complaints are pending before the court. It is believed that the cases will not be heard until next February, as John S. Partridge, counsel for the defendants, stated he would probably file a demurrer to the complaints within a few days.

Lodge Peter Children.—More than one hundred children of members of Mount Davidson Lodge, No. 431, P. and A. M., will enjoy a Christmas tree to-night at the lodge rooms, 2500 Gerrits Avenue, in San Francisco. The retiring master, Louis C. Welsbach, will welcome the youngsters and their mothers, and Harry Kahn, attired as Santa Claus, will distribute gifts. Entertainment planned entirely for the children will conclude the evening, which is in charge of a committee composed of Charles P. Burgess, chairman; Fernando Nelson, C. S. Allred and J. A. Adelman.

Salesman Honor Chief.—William O'Neill of Denver, Colorado, last year president of the Travelers Protective Association, will be guest of honor at the annual state convention of the California division of the association to be held in San Francisco, December 30. The business meeting and election of officers will be followed by a banquet. Robert E. Macfie, state secretary, and R. L. Webb of the San Francisco Convention and Tourist League are making arrangements for the local meeting.

Benjamin To Aid Hays.—Raymond Benjamin, former leader of the Republican Party in California, will follow his former chief, Will Hays, from the political field into the moving picture business, it is said. Benjamin, according to reports from his headquarters, will take over a sort of regional director of the movie producing world, just as under Hays he was a regional director of the Republican Party. Benjamin, who is ill at the St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco, refused to discuss his future plans.

Mother Asks Aid.—A destitute mother with a 5-months-old boy and a daughter 2½ years old appeared to the police yesterday for aid. She is Mrs. Susan Pasquale, 1344 Forty-eighth Avenue, whose husband was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail for selling narcotics. On the eve of Christmas, Mrs. Pasquale told the police she is penniless, faces eviction from her home for nonpayment of rent, and there is not a scrap of food in the house. The case was turned over to the Associated Charities, from whom Mrs. Pasquale has received assistance in the past.

Suit Against Woman Ends.—A suit for $1,000 by Max Arnold, auto dealer, against Mrs. George A. McGowan, prominent San Francisco clubwoman, was dismissed yesterday on motion of Arnold's attorney, Harold J. Abraham. Abraham informed the court that the case had been settled. It has been pending in the courts for six months. Mrs. McGowan bought a machine from Arnold and gave a note for $1,000. Later, Arnold alleged, she failed to pay as installments became due and Arnold took back the car. Then he sued to collect on the note.

Hearty Greetings.—A hearty Christmas greeting to all the ships and stations in the Twelfth Naval District was received yesterday by Rear-Admiral Alexander S. Halstead, San Francisco, district commander. The secretary of the Navy, Edwin Denby, by radio, "Greetings to the navy and marine corps," the message said. "Congratulations to those who are well and happy; sympathy to those ill or in trouble; best wishes to all. It has been a good year. The work of the service has been well done. America believes in the navy and its confidence is justified. Merry Christmas and happy New Year."

Public Defender Sued.—Henry C. Eisenminger, junior driver of 271 Turk Street, San Francisco, yesterday brought suit in Superior Judge

Graham's department against M. E. Levy and Frank J. Egan, public defender, for $750. The amount of damages alleged he paid to hire a car to carry on his business after his car was attached following a suit brought against him by William Sellman for $1875. Levy and Egan were bondsmen in the suit. Asked if he carried liquor in his machine during business hours, Eisenminger admitted that he did and that passengers occasionally had "on the hip." Judge Graham took the case under submission.

Fugitive Hides Police.—No trace of William Huff, alias Holman, the first and only prisoner to escape from the San Francisco City Prison, has been found, the police announced yesterday. Huff, arrested through a bar one inch thick which adjoining a wicket through which food is passed into the cells, squeezed through this opening, he climbed to the roof of the jail and escaped. The police announced yesterday that they have several clues which may lead to Huff's capture. President Timothy Reardon and two inspectors from the board of public works visited the city prison to ascertain if the construction of the building was responsible for the escape. Chief of Police Daniel J. O'Brien started an investigation of the escape yesterday. Any negligent Chief of Prison announced that charges would be filed.

RETHERS ASSUMES PRESIDIO POST

Organized Graves Registration Service For Recording War Dead

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Bearing a comforting message for the families and friends of the American soldiers whose bodies rest in Europe, Colonel Henry P. Rethers, former chief of the United States Graves Registration Service Overseas, arrived in San Francisco yesterday to take over the office of quartermaster for the Ninth Corps Area, U. S. A. succeeding Colonel Frank H. Lawton.

After serving during the war as chief quartermaster of the base section in Great Britain, with control of the camps for the reception of American troops en route to France, 200,000 of whom passed through England monthly during the latter part of the war, and directing the purchases made in England for the quartermaster corps, Colonel Rethers was appointed in December, 1919, to organize the Graves Registration Service, with headquarters at Paris.

Given Signal Honors. For his achievements in France he was made an officer of the Legion of Honor and was presented by the republic with a statuette entitled "Military Cross" at public ceremonies held last year in Severs. Only two of these honors have been conferred by France, the other statue being awarded to Marshal French of the British army. The state department has initiated a special enactment of congress to enable Colonel Rethers to accept this tribute from a foreign government.

Given D. S. M. For his work in England during the war he was granted the distinguished service medal by the United States and was invested by King George of Great Britain with the order of St. George and St. Michael.

Denies Hiring Gunman To Slay Her Husband

DETROIT, Dec. 23.—Mrs. May Blinn Ford, charged with trying to engage a professional gunman to kill her wealthy husband, collapsed when taken into the municipal court for arraignment to-day. A plea of not guilty was entered and she was taken to the county jail under $25,000 bail. After she had recovered her composure, Mrs. Ford reiterated her previous statement that she was the victim of a "frame-up" that grew out of domestic difficulties, including a suit for divorce, filed last August, in which she charged cruelty, and a suit asking $25,000 damages of her estranged husband, for alleged assault.

"Isn't it absurd," she added, "that I, a trained nurse, should attempt to engage a gunman to kill my husband after I had left him, when it would have been so easy for me to do it when I lived with him?"

She charged her husband, May Ford, a farm owner, with cruelty, adding that he had private detectives trail her and that on one occasion he had threatened to put her "behind the bars." "This," she added, "is the way he proposes to do it, I suppose."

Mrs. Ford asserted that she had no recollection of a meeting with Edward Kunath, a detective lieutenant, who charged that she offered $20,000 to him to kill her husband, believing the detective to be a professional gunman. Kunath and three other detectives who figured in the investigation that led to Mrs. Ford's detention asserted the money was to be paid as soon as she came into possession of her husband's estate, said to amount to $200,000.

Mrs. Ford, the detectives asserted, gave to him a photograph of her husband to make sure the right man was slain. Three other detectives swore they overheard a conversation between Mrs. Ford and Kunath in which several plans for killing her husband were presented by Mrs. Ford. One was that he be shot in his farm home west of Detroit and others that he be shot or strangled while working about the barn, the body to be buried in a hay stack.

Germans Cannot Afford To Bring Home Dead

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—Chances of bringing home Germany's soldier dead, most of whom he buried near the spot where they fell, fades rapidly with the falling value of the mark.

Present costs of funerals, added to the expense of transporting bodies from France or Russia, have reached such high figures as to stagger the average German family. Figures available here place the cost of bringing a soldier home from France at a total of 20,000 marks—a sum beyond the reach of most Germans.

Europe Not In Condition For Peaceful Mediation

THE danger of the United States mixing in any of the European embroilments, even as a mediator, is urged by the war veterans, who receive further proof each day.

The latest to add his experienced word of warning is Representative Burton of Ohio, just returned from Europe as a member of the World War Debt Commission.

Burton says:

But what are we to do when Europe is in the present ferment? When they are at dagger's point with one another a decision in favor of one of them, or even a friendly suggestion, would be met with instant opposition. It is still a clash with selfish ambitions—I am well aware that there are those who feel that Europe is waiting for the United States to do her good, philosopher and friend; that her people would be docile in following our leadership—unfortunately, such is not the case.

It is a tribute to idealism, the belief of many that the United States, by the precept of example, or the prattling of moralities, can transform the quarrelling bad boys of Europe into peaceful little chaps who will sit at Uncle Sam's knee in respectful obedience to his sermon. Such, however, is not the fact.

Most of the European nations, despite all their chattering about "protecting civilization," "saving democracy" and "furthering the oppressed peoples," still operate cold-bloodedly upon the old practices of grab, hold and exploit.

The chancelleries of Europe are not conducting their campaigns with the Ten Commandments before their eyes.

They are planning and fighting in the same old way, for their own selfish aggrandizement—big fellow gobble little fellow—ten regiments being ten stronger reasons than the Ten Commandments.

It shouldn't be so, but it is so.

The United States should never cease working in every practical way to do what she can toward advancing the cause of justice and peace between nations.

But until there are some definite indications of change she will do very well to keep her face out of a maze of flying fists.

Presidential Primaries And Popular Elections

THE abolition of the electoral college and direct popular election of the president and vice-president, regardless of state lines, are advocated by the Bee.

And Washington dispatches early this month, outlining a committee report adopted by the "Progressive Conference" or "farm bloc" in that city, indicated these reforms had been favored by the gathering.

But particulars were lacking, and there was uncertainty as to just how far the declarations had gone.

It now appears from an exact copy of the report in question that it calls for application of the direct primary principle to the nomination of party candidates for president and vice-president, in the following terms:

We therefore declare for adoption of national measures providing that the candidates of all political parties for president and vice-president shall be nominated by direct vote of the voters of the country, without the intervention of any convention, and that the delegates to the national convention shall be elected by the direct vote of the people at the time they select the party candidates for president and vice-president.

Pending adoption of such a national law, we recommend that the states adopt state presidential primary laws.

But with regard to direct popular election of president and vice-president, the committee report, adopted by the conference, went no farther than the following declaration:

While the conduct, direction and control of presidential elections does not come within the scope of our authority, this committee feels that its work would not be complete unless it went on record as favoring an amendment to the federal constitution by which the electoral college would be abolished and the people empowered to vote directly for president and vice-president.

This Norris amendment was introduced in the senate as long ago as last January, and was then referred to the judiciary committee, which took no action upon it. But, as it is now upon the senate calendar, it may come up for discussion before long, and a vote be taken upon it.

It is good so far as it goes, but what is needed is not a new method of election by states. The choice of president and vice-president should be by majority of the vote cast by The People, voting as citizens of the United States, and the result should be determined wholly irrespective of state lines.

Service by the press of the time-honored injunction to "shop early" is now in order throughout "this broad land of ours."

And, as in the past, the early bird still continues to catch the worm.

PERHAPS THE CHILD ISN'T BIG ENOUGH YET TO BE DRESSED LIKE THAT!

Tinkering With The Mind Is Extremely Dangerous

THERE are no new ideas; there are only new applications of old ones. Somewhere in his Discourses Epictetus mentions the ambition of Socrates "every day to grow better and better." Now after some two thousand years Coue crystallizes the ambition into a formula which his disciples chant in chorus, and many people seem to feel that the words have new and magical properties.

But they are not new and they are not magical, nor does the French protagonist of auto-suggestion himself assert that they are. Coue has merely found a way of making one of the best known of all psychological laws newly attractive to the public. He draws clients by the same appeal that is used in the optimistic literature of "boost." Nothing has so strong an appeal to the average person as a formula which tells him that he is in fact the thing he is in desire.

There have been plenty of cases of disease apparently "cured" by mental suggestion breaking out with renewed violence when at last the subject's power to feel himself grew unequal to the task imposed upon it. And far too many persons have died abruptly in the belief that they were getting well.

when an orthodox course of treatment might have cured them.

Then there is the mental side. All sane and well centered people shrink instinctively from hypnotism, and with good reason. It is a very risky business, this putting your mind under the control of another; it is inevitably weakening to the will power, whatever else it may be.

Coue's method is essentially hypnotism in wholesale lots. According to reports from Paris, it has already produced many strange mental disorders there. Suggestion applied in one direction may just as easily be applied in another. Paris is full of hysterical women who imagine themselves to be stabbed with poisoned needles, and frantically have perfectly innocent bystanders arrested for a crime which their own deranged imaginations committed.

No doubt Coue is sincere. He may be doing some good. But it cannot be too strongly emphasized that all tinkering with the human mind is extremely dangerous.

One of the factors that made the late John W. Wainwright so great a success in business was appreciation of the value of advertising.

This conspicuously is illustrated by the fact that his first day's receipts as a retailer were devoted entirely to newspaper advertising.

And, had the opening day been well advertised in like manner, the receipts doubtless would have been much larger.

STORY OF HERRIN MASSACRE SHOWS THE BEAST STILL RAMPANT IN CIVILIZATION

THE testimony at the trial of those charged with guilt in the Herrin massacre of last June makes only blacker still the fiendish murders that then caused the country to wonder how thick was its veneer of civilization.

Day by day this week the horrible story has been unfolded of men murdered in cold blood; of residents of Herrin slitting with glee the throats of the wounded; of wounded begging for water and getting a shot through the head.

The original story as published by the press associations was not exaggerated.

It did not give the full horror that comes with the added detail given in the present court action.

With the full proof of the terrible deed the United States can well wonder what is wrong with its civilization, that such beastly slaughter of poor human beings can be committed by its citizens.

The offense of the butchered was to work in a coal mine against which a strike had been declared.

Even that offense had ceased, for the strikers had surrendered to the attacking mob, under guarantee of protection.

And under that protection the defenseless men were shot and knifed and blackjacked like pigs in a slaughterhouse.

Which merely goes to prove further that the United States has much work to do before it can boast a civilization unspotted by throw-backs to the beastly savage.

THE LAWYERS MIGHT TRY TO UNTANGLE OUR LEGAL SNARL

THE lawyers of California expended much time and energy in the last two years endeavoring to have the voters pass a law, "yers" bill which would prevent trust company lawyers from giving free legal advice.

With that issue decided against them, the bar of California should not settle back to its law books as if denial of that request leaves them no further work to do.

The statutes, the procedure and the whole legal system of California is in such a sorry mess that the average individual does not go to court with the expectation of justice.

He approaches fearfully, haltingly, lost in a maze, tangled in red tape, strangled with procedure.

He seeks a tribunal where some disinterested authority will decide what is right and wrong, and finds instead the judge purely an umpire to keep order between opposing counsel, who fight the affray to its bitter end.

In financial difficulties he sues for a debt that he may pay his bills. The verdict through appeals may be two years in arrival.

Criminal law is even more striking in its inefficiency, for a year or two may elapse between the crime committed and the trial—often dismissed because the principal witnesses have died in the meantime.

Justice, either in civil or criminal law, must be reasonably quick of decision.

But a lawsuit in California is covered with cobwebs.

No finer work could be performed

Dickens On Christmas Spirit

Dickens has written:

Therefore, as we grow older, let us be more thankful that the circle of our Christmas associations and of the lessons that they bring expands. Let us welcome every one of them, and summon them to take their places by the Christmas hearth. Welcome, old aspirations, glittering creatures of an ardent fancy, to your shelter underneath the holly. We know you and have not outlived you yet. Welcome old projects and old loves, however fleeting, to your nooks among the steadier lights that burn around us with truth. Around this little hearth on which the sunny curls lie heaped, the graces sport, as prettily, as airily, as when there was no scythe within the reach of time to shear away curls of our first love.

Upon another girl's face near it—pale but smiling bright—a quiet and contented little face, we see home fairly written. Shining from the work, as rays shine from a star we see how, when our graves are old, other hopes than ours are young, other hearts than ours are moved; how other ways are smoothed; how other happiness blooms, ripens and decays—no, not decays, for other hearts and other hands of children, not yet in being, nor for ages yet to be, arise, and bloom and ripen to the end of all.

Welcome, everything! Welcome, alike what has been, and what never was, and what we hope may be, to your shelter and underneath the holly, to your places around the Christmas fire where what is sits open-hearted: In yonder shadow do we see outbriding furiously upon the blaze an enemy's face? By Christmas Day we do forgive him! If the injury he has done us may admit of some compromise, let him come here and take his place. If otherwise, unhappily, let him go hence, assured that we will never injure nor accuse him.

Senator Johnson Proves Spread Of Progressivism

SENATOR Johnson's article on Washington, published in another part of the paper to-day, as the beginning of a series, there is clearly shown the effective spread of progressivism, so that to-day nearly everything sought to be done seeks also the mantle of progressivism to aid its achievement.

The same senators and representatives who years ago carefully avoided tainting themselves with the forward looking movement to-day endeavor to identify themselves intimately with it.

It is a healthy sign that the problems of the future which can be settled legislatively may be decided on no mere labels, but on substantial principles by groups of like thought representing real differences in political theory.

Advance toward that desired end comes slowly so far by an infusion into the present parties of a strong dose of progressivism, so that progressive Democrats have a closer kinship with progressive Republicans than with the reactionaries of their own parties.

The stand-patters of both the Republican and the Democratic parties are more in harmony with those of like belief in the opposite party than with progressives under their own party label.

How long elements naturally antagonistic can remain under a common bond remains to be seen.

Some overwhelming issue may without change of name make either party the progressive organization and the other the medium for those who believe in things as they are without change.

Senator Johnson's article gives no indication of what the future may hold, but he does press that the present is developing greater strength for progressivism in the two parties.

The recent elections also showed that clearly, for in state after state senatorial towers of staidism went down to defeat before younger men advocating that the national government be more the servant of The People, even at the expense of tradition.

Not very many years ago, the idea of bridging the Golden Gate would have been laughed at. But now it is not only seriously proposed, but engineering plans have been made.

It is estimated that a combined cantilever and suspension bridge, 6,700 feet long, costing about $17,000,000, and so high above the water that even the largest sailing ships could pass under it without risk, would yield an annual return of about $1,200,000 in tolls upon automobiles, passengers and freight.

The project appears feasible, and its accomplishment would be a great boon to Marin and other coast counties.

A story which recalls Mark Twain's famous description of a French duel comes from Uruguay. Dr. Baltazar Drum, president of the South American republic, and Dr. Luis Alberto Herrera, a political rival, met on the field of honor, fired two shots apiece, missed all four times and then made up.

The reports of the affair do not state whether the statements kissed when they made up. It is to be hoped for the sake of artistic unity that they did. Only the spectacle of two bearded men in top hats kissing each other could properly conclude such a duel as that.

Merely A Private Think—The Gentlest Soul

On Christmas Day of all days, it is meet that every man and woman and child should take thought and consider what the birth of the Savior meant to mankind.

It is not necessary that He should be considered from any particular sectarian standpoint from this or from that devotional angle. It is not necessary even that His divinity be acknowledged.

The thoughts which He inspired, the work for the world and for Humanity which He accomplished, can be used as the seed for deep lessons to the most outspoken infidel as well as to the most devout Christian. For the life, and the admonitions, the teachings and the acts of this man Jesus—or this God, as you will—read aright and taken to heart, will alike sanctify the soul that believeth in Him and ennoble the heart that doubts.

Nor would a careful study of the works of the Nazarene fail to make a better man, not alone of him who repudiates the Christ who saved, but even of the blindest atheist who denies the God who created.

POETRY OLD AND NEW

For to Christ, the Savior, there is no stony ground. The seeds of mercy, and tenderness, and loving kindness, and all charity which ever dropped from His lips will sprout, and grow, and blossom, and perfume anywhere within the wide world—in the most stubborn soul—in the most debased heart. All that is necessary is that the rock be but touched by the seed.

The most illustrious unbelievers this world has ever known—reput-

Confessions

(By Robert Browning)

What is he buzzing in my ears?
"Now that I come to die,
Do I view the world as a vale of tears,"
Ah, reverend sir, not I!

What I viewed there once, what I view again
Where the phylax bottles stand
On the table's edge—is a suburb lane,
With a wall to my bedside hand.

That lane sloped, much as the bottles do,
From a house you could decry
Over the garden-wall: is the curtain blue
Or green to a healthy eye?

To mine, it serves for the old June weather
Blue above, and white below;
And that farthest bottle labeled "Ether"
Is the house of over-topping all.

At a terrace, somewhat near the steeper
There watched for me, one June,
A girl: I know 'tis, it's improper,
My poor mind's out of tune.

Arab Love Song

(By Francis Thompson)

The hunched camels of the night
Trouble the bright
And silver waters of the moon,
The maiden of the moon will soon
Through Heaven stray and sing,
Star gathering.

The Stranger

(By Walter de la Mare)

In the woods as I did walk,
Dappled with the moon's beam,
I did with a Stranger talk,
And his name was Death.

Spurred his head, dark his cloak,
Shady-wide his bonnet's brim;
His horse beneath a silvery oak
Grazed as I talked with him.

Softly his breast-brooch turned and shone;
Hill and deep were in his eyes;
One of his hands held mine, and one
The fruit that makes men wise.

Wonderously strange was earth to me,
Flowers white as milk did bloom
Spread to Heaven the Assyrian Tree,
Over my head with dream.

Dews were still betwixt us twain
Stars a trembling beauty shed;
Yet—not a whisper comes again
Of the words he said.

The Likeness

(By William H. Davies)

When I came forth this morn I saw
Quite two or three in the air;
And then I saw a flock of sheep,
Which told me how those clouds
Came there.

That flock of sheep, on that green
Well might it be so still and proud;
Its likeness had been drawn in Heaven.

On a blue sky, in silvery cloud,
Gazed me up, I gazed me down,
Twas a long way from Justice due
To such white wool, such sparkling Grass.

The Nereid

(From "Honey and Crystal,"
By Charles Ashton Smith)

Her face the sinking stars desire,
Under her place the deep bring
Shadow of errant winds that wing
O'er ethereal quills of foam and fire.

Her beauty is the light of pearls,
All stars and dreams and sunsets die
To make its fluctuant glooms that Jibe.

Around her, and low moonlight swirls
Down ocean's firmamental deep,
To weave for her who glimmers there

The Soldier

(By Rupert Brooke)

If I should die, think only this of That there's some corner of a foreign field
That is forever England. There shall be
In that rich earth a richer dust concealed;
A dust whom England bore, shaped,
made aware
Gave, once, her flowers to love, her ways to roam,
A body of England's breathing Blessed are Washed by the rivers, blest by suns of home.

And think, this heart, all evil shed away,
A pulse in the eternal mind, no less Gives somewhere back the thoughts by England given:
Her sights and sounds; dreams
And laughter, learnt of you;
In hearts at peace, under an English heaven.

The Unfading Picture

(By William Shakespeare)

Shall I compare thee to a Summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling blossoms,
And Summer's lease hath all too
short a date;
Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And every fair from fair sometimes declines,
By chance or nature's changing course untrimm'd,
But thy eternal Summer shall not fade
Nor lose possession of that fair thou owest;
Nor shall Death brag thou wanderest
in his shade
When in eternal lines to time thou growest:
So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
So long lives this—and this gives life to thee.

Mary Pickford In A New Tess At The Liberty

Mary Pickford, devoted six full months to her re-filming of Tess of the Storm Country, which will play at the Liberty Theater tomorrow and all Christmas week.

This new Tess of the Storm Country was filmed in an entirely new setting, and it is said to be the crowning achievement of Mary's career. In fact everything is new except the story and the star.

The six months of work was done in a complete fisherman's village Mary Pickford had built on Chatsworth Lake, thirty miles from Los Angeles.

The Chatsworth district is in the heart of real California "wilds," where it obtains a great deal of primitive life, and it was an ideal spot for an obscure village such as this story called for. The "set" Miss Pickford had constructed on the lake shore was unique inasmuch as all of the huts and cabins were practical throughout, the interior of each serving as either a dressing room or a storage place for equipment.

Since this section was too far out-of-the-way to make it feasible to wire in electrical currents, a motor generator was installed to supply the "juice" for the many powerful lights used in night scenes. A fire engine was also on the job of pumping from the lake an adequate water supply for all needs.

However, as several of the more vital situations in the drama were such as to make it advisable to film them on the studio grounds, it was necessary to erect at the studio an accurate replica of Tess's cabin with a section of the lake and on this "set" Miss Pickford did some of her most artistic work in re-creating the lovely character of Grace Miller White's heroine.

Jack Pickford In Garrison's Finish Is Kinema Feature

According to many critics, Jack Pickford has never made a better picture than Garrison's Finish, which opens at the Kinema tomorrow.

It has been two years since Jack Pickford has made a production and the announcement of his return to the screen in this story by W. M. Ferguson should create interest among those who have followed his progress.

In Garrison's Finish Ferguson has given us a swiftly moving racing story rotating around a girl, a boy and a horse. It contains many racing scenes, some of which are photographs of the actual running of the Kentucky Derby—most famous of all races in the United States—and also of the Metropolitan Handicap, run at Belmont Park, New York.

Scenes for the stock farms shown in the picture were taken on the Tevis Ranch near Bakersfield. There are thrills and during adventure in this racing romance.

Man vs. Beast appears on the same program, bringing some of the marvels of the forest and glimpses of big game that could only be made possible to see by the means

A Little Of Everything

INTERVIEWING OUR MANY

The coming of Mary Pickford's Tess of the Storm Country to Fresno recalls a certain pilgrimage made to the shores of the Chatsworth Reservoir, where most of the picture was shot.

It was a hot and dusty day, though the season was midwinter. The road to the location was the worst it is possible to imagine. There was one too many in the car, lunch went along with us in small pasteboard boxes, getting more and more flattened out with every mile. But we were going to see "our Mary."

Wherefore, a somewhat overcast atmosphere of cheerfulness went along.

The lake reached, we did indeed see Mary, who was at that time perched on the branch of a tree overhanging the water, and we saw her for several hours thereafter—at some distance.

It staid hot. No sooner had we found a spot in the shade than a property man or an assistant came along with a bucket of water, and something else in breeches and puttees came along with something that had to be set down exactly there. The afternoon became a perpetual progress from shade to shade, with the tail of each eye cooler, meanwhile, toward the lake where Mary was flirting with a bad cold in a leaky boat.

There were several over-dressed women with alleged British accents who had joined the trek some time after lunch, and who gushed steadily about how sweet Mary was and how intimately they knew her and "dear Douglas." There always are such women around picture studios and locations. Where they come from is a mystery, and where they are going is a greater one. But the ladies learn at last to accept them along with rain, motor accidents, fires and other calamities as products of an inscrutable Providence.

But to return to Mary. Along toward evening it finally got too dark to work, and she came ashore. There was a mad rush. Somehow or other the gushing women managed to arrive first. So they talked and Mary and the rest of us listened for another half hour. By this time Mary must have been half dead; but to her everlasting credit be it recorded that she shooed away the gushers at last and granted an audience to the more reporters.

She was very courteous but one felt that her mind was too firmly fixed on the prospects of home and bath and dinner to concentrate on the matter in hand. The rest of us were equally reminded. Talk and smiles alternated with disconnected sentences. One filled in by a mental appraisal of the famous eyes, wondering if they were genuine.

When it began to grow really dark, Mary excused herself and the procession started bumping back to Los Angeles. Silence reigned. Every one was planning the story he would write, and as for me, much of it could be clipped from last year's files. What Mary was thinking at that precise time it would be nice to know.

Several months might be appended to this perfectly inconsequential narrative. But the more I thought it over on the way home that night, the more I liked a free paraphrase of a certain passage in King Lear: "You must endure." His bumping, hence even as his bumping hither; "Publicity is all."

Which means nothing or a great deal, depending on whether you are on the giving or the receiving end.

SONG WRITERS' GEOGRAPHY
The most conspicuous excellence of this week's Orpheum bill is really the fact that not once in its entire length does any one sing a song about "wine back to Dixie" or praising "mah Mummy's lovin' arms."

Whether one regards this phenomenon as additional evidence that what you leave undone is often more important than what you do, or merely as an inexplicable error of omission, its occurrence is entitled to grateful notice. And this is all the more true because the omission is not likely to occur again in a hurry.

The formula for a "popular" song nowadays seems to include the following ingredients and no others: Southern skies, mah baby's eyes; Ah! see mah Mamma-a-my, and such minor variations as are suggested by the exigencies of rhyme and the necessity for avoiding infringement of copyright suits.

After some ten years of listening to this stuff one, if a Southerner, might easily be excused for starting a beneficial campaign against songwriters; and, if a Northerner, for detesting the very name of Dixie, while in nowise neglecting his own responsibilities in the lethal enterprise aforementioned.

Heart Interest In Top Line Act At Orpheum

A holiday bill with two headline attractions is the offering at the White-Orpheum for Christmas week starting Thursday.

Claude and Fannie Usher in The Bide-A-Wee Home, bring an unusual story and this pair have seldom been fitted with a better vehicle. Usher in his portrayal of the resourceful little Irishman and Fannie Usher in her character delineation chase the tears away with a laugh.

Flirtation, is a comedy of youth sprinkled with music which brings Jack Debell, Jean Waters and Richard Oswald along with a fine company who succeed in making the piece, which is a comedy instance in the lives of a group of co-eds, a load of laughter, songs and dances. Alma Neilson, toe dancer, who brings a production entitled Bohemian, assisted by E. Ely and Harry Howe with Mauria Roberts at the piano.

Little Billy, Vandeville's Tinseltown Headliner, is a recruit from the musical comedy field, having recently starred in Mamma's Ark, and Linger Longer Letty.

Count Ferrone and Miss Tris Oliver are baritone and soprano who present a well selected program of songs.

Les Grills are Parisian entertainers. They go beyond the work of usual acrobats and have been a hit during their whole tour.

Juggernaut is a combination of humor and skill put on in a novel manner. The bill is rounded out with the usual Topics Of The Day, Aesop's Fables, and Pathe News.

African Hunting Film Coming To The White For A Four-Day Run

A close-up of leopard shooting is one of the features of Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera, a 10 reel film record of the exploits of H. A. Snow in the heart of the dark continent, which comes to the White Theater tomorrow for an engagement of four days only, with presentations each day at 2:30 and 5:30 P. M. The film shows the hunter relentlessly trailing the spotted cat, one of the most feared beasts of Africa.

Snow's first bullet wounded the animal as it dodged zigzag through the brush, but Snow and his son, the camera man who always was in as much danger as the father, followed until the beast was tamed, when a well placed bullet ended its existence.

Wanton slaughter is absent from Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera, but Snow of course never hesitated to kill when his life was in danger. Among the man-killing beasts which are shown in the film are they fell before his rifle are, rhinos, hippos, leopards, lions, buffalo, hyenas and elephants.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

They wanted a girl who could ride horseback.

That is how Helene Chadwick came to the film. It was several years ago and you would never suspect to look at her screen portrayals to-day that she began her career as a Western heroine. Just to prove to you that she did present here is a picture of Helene in one of her wild west hats worn in an old picture.

When a director in the East wanted an equine heroine to play a leading role, Miss Chadwick, thanks to her upstate New York training, could do it. She had beauty, and she was told she had talent. Then she went westward with the general motion picture exodus, but she did not keep on playing Westerns.

Before coming to the screen she had posed for countless art pictures, posters, and cover illustrations. Her mother was a singer on the stage before she married, but Helene has never been on the stage and it was not until 1913 that she entered pictures.

Some of her recent pictures in which she has played interesting characters are The Sin Flood, Brothers Under the Skin, and

By O. HENRY

It—The Lotus And The Bottle (Continued from Last Saturday)

Willard Goddie, consul for the United States in Corrallo, was working leisurely on his yearly report. Goodwin, who had strolled in as he did daily for a smoke on the much coveted porch, had found him so absorbed in his work that he departed after roundly abusing the consul for his lack of hospitality.

"I shall complain to the civil service department," said Goodwin, "or is it a department?—perhaps it's only a theory. One gets neither civility nor service from you. You won't talk; and you won't set out anything to drink. What kind of a way is that of representing your government?"

Goodwin strolled out and across to the hotel to see if he could bully the quarantine doctor into a game on Corrallo's solitary billiard table. His plans were completed for the interception of the fugitives from the capital; and now it was but a waiting game that he had to play. The consul was interested in his report. He was only twenty-four, and he had not been in Corrallo long enough for his enthusiasm to cool in the heat of the tropics—a paradox that may be allowed between Cancer and Capricorn.

So many thousands of bananas, so many thousands of oranges and coconuts, so many ounces of gold dust, pounds of rubber, coffee, indigo and sarsaparilla—actually, exports were twenty per cent greater than for the previous year.

A little thrill of satisfaction ran through the consul. Perhaps, he thought, the state department, upon reading his introduction, would notice—and then he leaned back in his chair and laughed. He was getting as bad as the others. For the moment he had forgotten that Corrallo was an insignificant town in an insignificant republic lying along the by-ways of a second-rate sea. He thought of the quarantine doctor, who subscribed for the London Lancet, expecting to find in his reports to the home board of health concerning the yellow fever germ. The consul knew that not one in fifty of his acquaintances in the states had ever heard of Corrallo. He knew that two men, at any rate, would have to read his report—some underling in the state department, and one, possibly, in the public printing office. Perhaps the typesetter would note the increase of commerce in Corrallo, and speak of it, over the chessboard, to a friend.

He had just written: "Most innumerable is the stupeness of the large exporters in the United States, perceiving the French and German houses to practically control the trade interests of this rich and productive country"—when he heard the hoarse notes of a steamer's siren.

Goddie laid down his pen and gathered his Panama hat and umbrella. By the sound he knew it to be the Valhalla, one of the line of cruise vessels plying for the Veracruz company. Now, in the last of five years, every one in Corrallo could name you each incoming steamer by the note of her siren.

The consul sauntered to the beach, about, shaded way to the beach, by reason of long practice he gauged his stroll so accurately that by the time he arrived on the sandy shore the boat of the customs officials was rowing back from the steamer, which had been boarded and inspected according to the laws of Anchuria.

There is no harbor at Corrallo. Vessels of the drought of the Valhalla must ride at anchor a mile from shore. When they take on fruit it is conveyed on lighters and ferried across at Solinas, where there was a fine harbor, and where many kinds were to be seen, but in the remotest of Corrallo scarcely any save the fruiters paused. Now and then a tramp coaster, or a mysterious brig from Spain, or a queer French barque would hang innocently for a few days in the offing. Then the custom house crew would become doubly vigilant and wary, and might a ship or two would be making strange trips in and out along the shore; and in the morning the stock of Three-Star Hennessy, wine and drygoods in Corrallo would be found vastly increased. It has also been said that the customs officials jingled more silver in the pockets of their red-striped trousers, now that the record books showed no increase in import duties received.

The customs boat and the Valhalla gig reached the shore at the same time. When they grumbled in the shallow water there was still five yards of rolling surf between them and dry sand. Then half-clad Corrallo dashed into the water and caught on their backs the Valhalla's purser and the little native officials in their cotton undershirts, blue trousers with red stripes, and flapping straw hats.

At a college grade had been a treasure of a first banana. He now closed his umbrella, stuck it upright in the sand, and stooped, with his hands resting upon his knees. The purser, burlapine the Valhalla's consular, pulled at the consul the heavy roll of newspapers, tied with a string, that the steamer always brought for him. Goddie leaped high and caught the roll with a sound "grack!" and lungers on the beach—about a third of the population of the town—launched and applauded delightedly. Every week they expected to see that roll of papers delivered, and they were never disappointed. Innovations did not flourish in Corrallo.

The consul reholsted his umbrella and walked back to the consulate. This home of a great nation's representative was a wooden structure of two rooms, with a native-built gallery of poles, ladders and nipa palm running on three sides of it. The room was the official apartment, furnished sparsely with a sack of rice, a hammock and two uncomfortable cane-seated chairs. The rest of the first and latest president of the country represented him, against the wall. The other room was the consul's living apartment.

of newspapers. Here in Corrallo for two days or longer he would read of goings-on in the world very much as we of the world read those whimsical contributions to instant science that assume to portray the doings of the Martians. After he had finished with the papers they would be sent on the rounds of the other English-speaking residents of the town.

The paper that came first to his hand was one of those bulky mattresses of printed stuff upon which the readers of certain New York journals are supposed to take their Sabbath literary nap. Bearing this the consul rested it upon the table, supporting it with his hand, and leaning for a nearer scrutiny and a view of the Florida headlines of the column next to the picture.

Yes; he was not mistaken. The evening was the edition of the Times, belonging to "that prince of good fellows, Midas of the money market, and society's plink of perfection, J. Ward Tolliver."

Slowly sipping his black coffee, Goddie read the column of print. Following a listed statement of Mr. Tolliver's real estate and bonds, came a description of the yacht's furnishings, and then the grain of news no bigger than a mustard seed. Mr. Tolliver, with a party of favored guests, would sail the next day on a six weeks' cruise along the Central American and South American coasts, among the guests were Mrs. Cumberland Payne and Miss Ida Payne of Norfolk.

The writer, with the fatuous presumption "that was demanded of him by his readers, had collected a sentence suited to their palate. He bracketed the names of Miss Payne and Tolliver until he had well-nigh read the marriage ceremony over them. He played coyly and insinuatingly upon the springs of "society" and "Madame Rumor" and "a little hint" and "no one would be surprised," and ended with congratulations.

Goddie, having finished his breakfast, took his papers to the edge of the gallery, and sat there in his favorite steamer chair with his feet on the bamboo railing. He lighted a cigar, and looked out upon the sea. He felt a glow of satisfaction at finding he was so little disturbed by what he had read. He told himself that he had conquered the distress that had sent him, a voluntary exile, to this far land of the lotus. He could never forget the idea of course; but there was no longer any pain in thinking about her. When they had had that misunderstanding and quarrel he had impulsively sought this consulate, with the desire to retaliate upon her by detaching himself from her world and presence. He had succeeded thoroughly in that. During the twelve months of his life in Corrallo no word had passed between them, though he had sometimes heard of her through the dilatory correspondence with the friends to whom he still wrote. Still he could not repress a little thrill of satisfaction at knowing that she had not yet married a millionaire or any one else. But evidently Tolliver had not yet abandoned hope.

Well, it made no difference to him now. He had eaten of the lotus. He was happy and content in this land of perpetual afternoon. These old days of life in the States seemed like an irritating dream. He hoped life would be as happy as he was. The climate was balmy as that of distant Avalon; the fetterless, rhythmic round of enchanted days; the life among the brilliant, romantic people—a life full of music, flowers, and low laughter; the influence of the imminent sea and mountains, and the many shapes of love and magic and beauty that bloomed in the white tropic night—with all he was more than content. Also, there was Paula Branigan.

Sir Arthur Pinner has the reputation of being one of the most careful of modern producers. On one occasion he expatiated with an actor for speaking a certain line in a dramatic fashion. "I have always spoken the line that way," said the actor, with dignity, "and I shall continue to do so."

"My dear sir," was Pinner's caustic retort, "by all means speak the line as you will. I would be the last person in the world to deprive you of one of your laughs."—Illustrator (London).

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Puzzled Hunters

By THORNTON W. BURGESS (Copyright, 1922, by T. W. Burgess)

The Hunter Who Had Carried One Billy By The Tail

To this day the hunters who had caught One Billy Possum and then lost him haven't the least idea what became of him. You know they had supposed he was dead, when all the time he wasn't dead at all and had stolen away the moment their backs were turned.

He had been tossed on an old stump, while they gave their attention to Bobby Coon, and when they missed him they were the most puzzled hunters that ever lived in the Green Forest.

It was some time before they gave up trying to find him. You see, they had counted on a Possum dinner.

"He certainly was dead," declared the hunter who had carried One Billy by the tail and who had tossed him on the stump. "And a dead Possum certainly couldn't run away. It must be that a big Owl saw him lying there and carried him off. You know an Owl makes no sound with his wings."

The other hunters agreed that this must be the case. It was the only way in which they could account for One Billy's strange disappearance.

It is to be noted that when the hunters were talking of One Billy, they were all talking of him as if he were a Coon. One of them, "but we've got a Coon up in this tree and we'll get him. We'll have a Coon dinner, anyway."

So they once more turned their attention to the tree in which they supposed Bobby Coon to be. The one who was half way up the tree kept on climbing and fastening a light along each branch as he came to it. The others watched him and shouted to him from time to time. At last the hunter was as high as he could climb and he hadn't found Bobby Coon. He flashed his light, all about in the top of the tree.

"You must have overlooked him," one of the hunters on the ground called. "That Coon certainly went up this tree and he must be in it now."

The hunter in the tree was sure that he hadn't overlooked Bobby Coon, but to make doubly sure he flashed his light along every branch as he climbed down. Of course, he didn't find Bobby Coon or anybody else. So sure were those hunters that Bobby Coon was in that tree that another took the light and climbed the tree.

At last one of them guessed what really had happened. "That Coon must have jumped across into the next tree," said he. "He certainly isn't in this tree."

So one of the hunters took the light and climbed the next tree. It was a hard tree to climb and he declared it would be the last tree he would climb that night. Coon or no Coon. Of course, there was no Coon. How the tongues of those hunters did fly! They were puzzled. They were sadly puzzled. They had caught a Possum and he had mysteriously disappeared. They didn't know what to make of it. Suddenly the dog began to bark, and away he raced. He had found the trail of Bobby Coon. Then the hunters had guessed what had happened.

"We may as well go home," said one of them. "That Coon has run straight for the hollow and we can't get him there." And so it was that four disappointed hunters left the Green Forest and the night once more became quiet and peaceful.

The next story: "A Jolly Christmas."

SCIENCE SIMPLIFIED

Conducted By EDWIN L. SLOSSON, Ph.D., M. S. (All Rights Reserved by United Features Syndicate. Reproduction Prohibited.)

LIGHT WAVES AND TESTERS

Light has a well recognized physiological and psychological effect upon man and colored light is often used to symbolize emotions or conditions. Thus soft orange, red or yellow light typifies the comfort of a cozy home. The difference in color is known to be due to differences in the length of the light waves. For light does travel in waves just as water and sound do. The physicists have measured the rate of this travel as something like 136,000 miles per second and have also determined the length of the waves of visible light. For example a wave of yellow light produced by burning sodium is 0.5892 thousandths of a millimeter.

Besides these visible light rays extending from deep red to deep violet in color, there are known to be invisible light rays beyond the red and violet infra-red as well as beyond the violet known as ultra-violet. We do not know much about these light rays as yet, but many scientific men have made them subjects for research and a few facts have been established. These indicate peculiar effects upon men continually exposed to certain invisible waves.

It is reported that in a large factory one department regularly gave more trouble than any other. There was dissatisfaction, sometimes friction between the men and a large turn-over in personnel. Then a personal specialist took command and soon found that men transferred from the troublesome room to other departments were quite normal while peaceful men put into that room became troublesome in time. Therefore, the difficulty lay in the room. Well, in the end the light was found to be the cause. There were too many red and infra-red rays, so changes were made and the seeming miracle accomplished. Complete calm followed the squall.

While this is undoubtedly an unusual case, it is not the first time it has been found profitable to remove all that is irritable from the surroundings of workmen. Improvement there has meant better production. How fortunate that science provides better and better methods for diagnosis and treatment even to slight changes in the length of the light waves provided for illumination.

WHY THEY SUFFER

At the Lamb Club a little group was discussing Shakespeare.

"Shakespeare puts us into some tight places," declared a producer. "Now, Juliet was only 14, but no one can play that part until she has lived and loved and suffered. There has meant better production. So we find Juliet played by women of 40, and not infrequently they weigh around 200 pounds."

After lighting a cigarette, he resumed.

"And they suffer. How they do suffer."

"What makes them suffer?" asked a friend, acting as interlocutor.

"Getting into those tight bodies, my boy."

FOOLING THEM

Young Andrew was seated at the curbstone with a tin can in his hand, glancing now and then at a telephone pole near him. A gentleman who was passing was attracted by the youth and stopped to remark: "Going fishin', young man?"

"Nops," replied the lad, "Take a look in there," exhibiting the can, which was partly-filled with caterpillars.

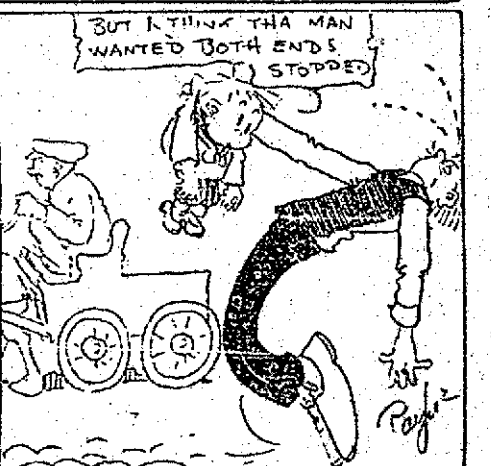

"What are you doing with them?" inquired the man, who now felt a genuine interest.

"You crawl up the trees and eat up half the leaves, you know?" said the boy.

"How are they a pesky nuisance, to be sure," agreed the man.

"Well, I'm feedin' a few of 'em," the boy explained. "I'm sendin' 'em up this telephone pole."

Hanford And Fresno Will Meet Tomorrow If Sun Gets On Job

Inspector Nichols Will Trade His Christmas Presents For A Bright Day So That Second Game Of Benefit Series May Be Played On Local Lot

By DICK DOWN

FRESNO and Hanford will make another attempt tomorrow to play the second of that four-game benefit series. The game is still on the cards, but what the weather man will do in the next twenty-four hours is the big question. "Just a day of sunshine, that's all we ask for our Christmas present," was the plea of E. A. Nichols, police inspector, who, with manager Cliff McCarl, has been handling the details of the series. "I know the fans want to see baseball, but they don't care for it in this foggy weather. If it clears the game is on."

The purpose of this benefit series should fit in well with the holiday spirit. The four games were planned originally to lift part of the remaining debt from the firemen and policemen's ball park. And this park in turn was conceived with the idea that once paid for the returns would be used exclusively for the fund to aid the widows and orphans of the two departments. There remains several thousands of dollars of indebtedness on the park and until receipts from games removes this the widows and orphans are receiving their aid from the same sources as in the past. When this plan is clear of debt the rental will more than take care of the funds.

If by some fortunate arrangement with the elements the sun should be prevailed upon to shine all day tomorrow then the fans would see a good game of baseball. "Daddy" Rohrer, who will be the head of the Hanford crew, declares that he has a bunch of youngsters that will make the local crew step.

Manager McCarl will use practically the same club that took the Madera bunch down the line in the first game of the series about a month ago.

Six clubs in the valley league next year is the way the dope reads now. The four that finished the season last year—Fresno, Hanford, Dinuba and Visalia—are sure to return. The places and it is asserted that Stockton will be knocking at the door when the next league session is called. Modesto is the sixth member.

The possibilities of four more clubs are far from bright. Madera, which was in the league for a time last year, has a tough proposition. With the limited number of fans and high payroll it is almost out of the question that town to stay in the entire season. It is reported that some of the liabilities from last season are still to be handled, which makes the problem of getting started again doubly hard. However, that old fever gets the boys mightily enthusiastic and they may make another bid for a place.

Bakersfield might be considered if it were not so far south, but with Stockton sure to be a member the Kern County team would have a mighty long jump to make. Bakersfield is a strong football town because it has a winner. It probably would need a league leader to get the fans out to a baseball game.

"As far as I am concerned, personally, this post is through with football from now on," is the declaration of W. H. Good, manager of the Fresno American Legion Post. "Slim" goes on to give his reasons: "Unless players can be brought here and positions arranged so that they will stay the time to practice—in the daylight—every afternoon and make it possible to turn out a winning team, I would vote against the entry of this post into another San Joaquin football league."

"Without a winning team Fresno will not support club football. That was proven absolutely this season. The state college and the high school teams are coming stronger and stronger every year and I would rather give my support and patronage to these teams than try to handle a losing legion eleven."

Two Well Known Fresno Golfers Break Forth Into Holiday Verse

Not all the wit in the world is confined to the golf links, says Hugo Allard, well known Fresnoan and popular disciple of Colonel Bogie. Allard, moved by the holiday spirit sat down the other day and penned a bit of verse to his friend H. M. Young, whom he has often played on the Sunnyside Country Club links. Allard's attempts follow:

"I had a dream the other night,
When everything was still,
I dreamed I gave each friend of mine
A thousand dollar bill.

"Yes, I was handing out the stuff,
To each good friend and true,
When, durn-the-luck, they woke me up
Just as I came to you."

To which Young replied:
"I wish when you dream,
Like you did the other night,
You would dream that I beat
Sarazen in a good golf flight.

Please dream that I
Had perfect control,
And never took more
Than three to a hole.

"Dream that Sarazen, Hagen and all
Could not beat my best ball.

"A dream like that
Is worth more to me,
Than a thousand dollar bill.
As you will agree."

Washington Soccer Team Fights Edison To Scoreless Tie

The Washington Junior High School soccer players halted the Edison eleven yesterday when they battled the league leaders to a scoreless tie on the Washington Field. This is the first time in two years that Edison failed to finish the game in front.

The game was desperately fought, as the championship of the playground this season will give Edison permanent possession of the cup, having won it in 1920 and 1921.

The lineup for the Washington (D) Edison (E) game was:

Washington (D) Edison (E)
Ellis.....L.O. ....Date
Randall.....L.O. ....Kruza
Weston.....L.O. ....DePrima

Referee, Riley. Substitutions:
Washington, Volstine for Randall,
Adams for Smith.

The game was the final event to decide the school championship. It was hard-fought from start to finish, but owing to the town work the sophomores won by a score of 25 to 2. The star of the game was Basil Cook, who shot ten baskets.

The lineup for the teams were: Sophomores: Clifford Dobson, center; Jimmy Walp and Orace Brown, guards; Basil Cook and Barney Steakler, forwards; for the seniors, Fenton Houghton and Hiltie Johnson, forwards; Howard Danney, center; Ralph Gilbert and Ernest Smith, guards.

California Tennis Chief Approves Of Action In London

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Approval of the standardization of the tennis rules by the principal nations of the world playing the game at a conference in London was expressed by Dr. Sumner Hardy, president of the California Lawn Tennis Association.

There is little difference between many of the regulations adopted at the conference and the American rules now in force, according to Dr. Hardy.

He declared that he was particularly pleased with the adoption of the American regulation providing for a rest period after the third set in men's matches and after the second set in women's competition. Formerly the five matches were played through without a break.

Although the rest period provision was adopted for international matches it may be modified for domestic contests.

The international foot fault rule that was adopted only differs in wording from the American rule, said Dr. Hardy. This is to prevent the server from taking a walking or running start to reach the net quickly, thus giving him an added advantage.

Foreign players have always been satisfied with American-made tennis balls, he pointed out, and the conference accepted the American standard of resiliency. The English standard of size and weight of the balls was accepted, but this is practically the same as the American.

8-Game Card May Encounter Faculty Ban

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—The proposed eight game football schedule, recommended by the western conference faculty committee at its December 2nd meeting, may meet with strong opposition when it is presented at the faculties of big ten institutions, according to Prof. J. F. A. Pyre of Wisconsin, secretary of the faculty committee.

According to those who oppose the recommendation, the season is condensed rather than prolonged. If the recommendation goes through all football squads cannot start practice until two weeks before the first Saturday in October. This permits of only two weeks' preparation for the opening games, while three and four weeks were available in former years.

Only Short Ruled Period
Another point raised by the opposition is that with so short a period to prepare for the opening games, the players will not be in the desired condition and serious injuries may result. Of course, it is not imperative that all teams play eight games, but most of the coaches have already signified their intention of playing full schedules.

According to Prof. Pyre, the position has not been considered by the faculties, and probably will not come up for consideration until later in the season, as the faculty committee is not scheduled to meet until June, when the outdoor conference track and field meet will be held at Michigan. In the meantime the faculty recommendation of the eight game schedule is widely discussed at the big ten institutions.

Coaches Card Eight Games
It is understood some coaches have already scheduled eight games, but unless the faculty recommendation carries these men will have to wait until June, when the outdoor conference track and field meet will be held at Michigan. ### Weather Again Halts Completion Of Play In Junior Tourney

Rain and fog again interfered with the completion of the junior tennis tournament yesterday and this morning and it will be impossible to complete the play so that the cups donated by the Fresno Bee can be presented at the Dickey playground Christmas activities.

However, the four winners in the boys and girls A and C class will receive their trophies by getting in communication with R. A. Quigley, superintendent of the playgrounds or with the sporting department of The Fresno Bee.

VINEYARDISTS TO FIGHT OFF FROST WITH HEATERS

Oil Burners To Be Given A Test At Sanger During January

SUCCESS AT DINUBA COMMANDS ATTENTION

Farm Bureau President Tells Of Plan; Date To Be Set Tuesday

SO THAT a loss that mounted in some districts to 10 per cent may be circumvented during next April should there be a frost visitation, the Fresno County Farm Bureau next Tuesday will set the date upon which a vineyard heating system used last season with some degree of success in the Dinuba district will be tested on the farm of B. E. Knapp, near Sanger. Knapp is president of the county farm bureau.

According to Knapp, many of the vineyardists and orchardists of Fresno County have shown a deep interest in the heater, which is to be given the test. This is due, according to Knapp, to grape losses that mounted to as high as 10 per cent in some parts of the county last April, when there was a frost visitation.

Test At Dinuba
Dinuba growers who used the type of heater to be tested at the Sanger demonstration claim they sustained no frost damage, although the temperatures there dropped to the danger point. The result has been the kindling of desire upon the part of the Kern County Farm Bureau officials and grower members to make use of the heater next April, when the grape buds will be bursting forth and there is again danger of loss.

Cost Not Large
The heater used at Dinuba and to be tested at Sanger burns 27 gallons of oil, according to Knapp, and can be purchased for 40 cents each. Twenty-five of the heaters, according to Knapp, will protect an acre of vines, while fifty will do the work much better. In the Riverside orange belt stack heaters which cost $250 each have been used to protect the trees. Here, however, the heat must be carried to a height of ten to twenty feet. The vineyard heaters, according to Knapp, must heat to an elevation of but six feet to give satisfactory results.

WEST SIDE IS URGING USE OF BETTER SIRE

Dairymen Endorse Campaign To Increase Milk Production

NEWMAN (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—Plans for issuing 5,000 folders picturing the advantages of the use of pure-bred sires in the dairy herds of Stanislaus and Merced counties were outlined at a recent conference between Donald M. Smith, assistant county agricultural adviser of Stanislaus County with representatives of the Merced extension service, which was held in Los Banos.

The issuance of the folder is a part of a drive to urge the dairy men on the west side of the two counties to get more pure-bred sires for their herds.

Banks To Aid
Banks on the west side will aid in financing the folder and the chambers of commerce of the towns near here will aid also.
"The folder is designed to show the photographic increase in the production of butter fat by using high record pure-bred sires rather than grade cows," according to Smith.

The development of four Jersey cows starting with grades through the use of pure-bred sires, will be shown in the folder with figures of the increased production. It is planned.

Selection Important
Emphasis will be placed on the value of selecting bulls on productive records to insure increase in production in the cows, the advisers say.

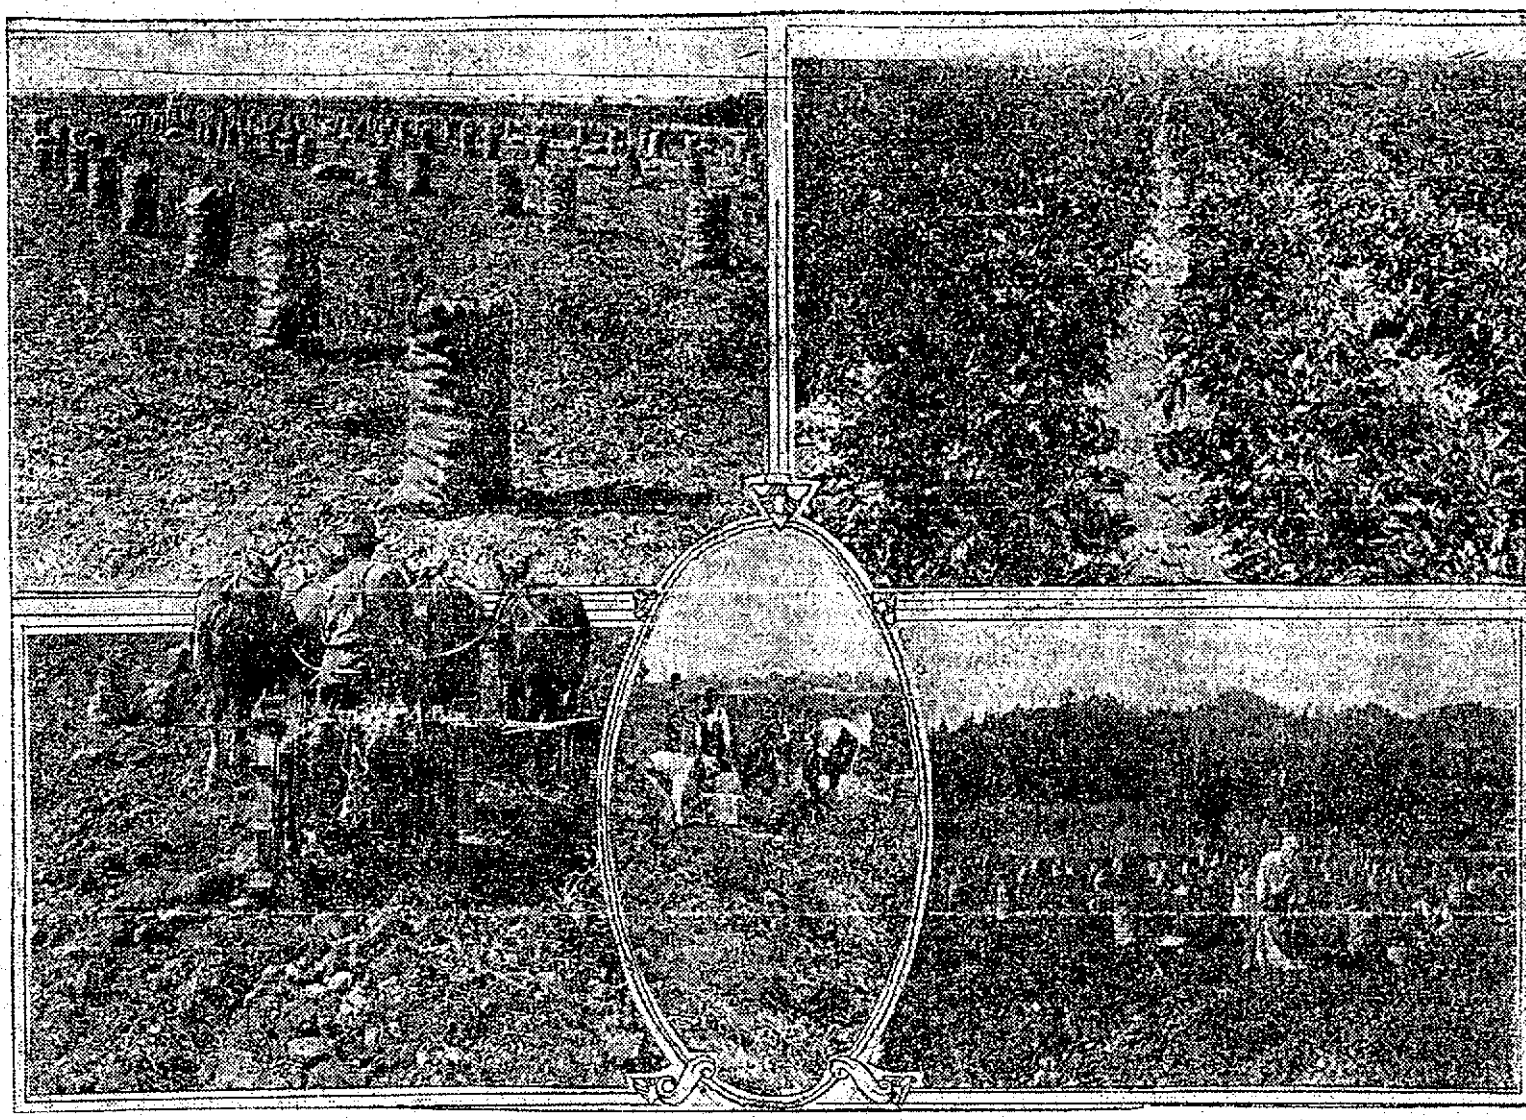

The folders will be issued about the middle of January.

Waterloo Jersey Cow Is Sold At Portland

While showing at the Pacific International Portland, the Waterloo Jersey cow, Lockford, sold the Jersey cow, Golden, Dame Omaha, to J. S. H. Matson, Victoria, British Columbia, for $1,500. The farm has recently shipped a bull to Albert Trexler, Lamelle, Nevada.

All the farm Violet Donovan as a senior 2-year-old, has just qualified for a silver medal, finishing the test of 30 days with 492 pounds of butter fat and calving ten days after finishing the test.

THE POTATO industry is one of the largest in the state that has to do with vegetables. Many troubles, in recent years, have beset the grower, among which is the lack of good seed. The Certified Seed Potato Growers' Association has been organized to fill this need. The pictures show some scenes in the great Sacramento Valley river bottom potato sections of the Sutter Basin and the Holland Land Company. In the lower left is a field on the E. G. Swift farm at Calistoga, where certified seed potatoes are grown. The lower right shows a potato digger at work.

CERTIFIED SEED TO BE BOON FOR POTATO INDUSTRY

Tubers Cannot Prove Better Than Parent Stock, Which Should Be Best Possible

By W. V. SHEAR
Potato Specialist, State Department of Agriculture
SACRAMENTO BEE BUREAU
Dec. 22.—One of the most important factors in the production of any crop is the quality of seed used. Since in the planting of seed potatoes, we are using what is in reality a cutting from the parent plant, we cannot hope to secure healthier or more productive plants than those from which the cuttings were taken. The only way, therefore, in which we can determine the value of a given lot of seed potatoes is to know the character of the plants which produced them.

It is the only way, therefore, to determine this through an inspection of the parent plants in the field where they are growing. This is the logic upon which the value of certified seed potatoes rests. To buy seed potatoes without knowing whether the plants of which they were a part were healthy or diseased, productive or unproductive, is to pay for something the value of which is hard to know.

Not Inbred In Seed
There is no way of detecting these diseases in the seed tubers themselves. It is evident the potato growers' only safety lies in planting certified seed. The writer has seen in the past year a great many potato fields, where more than 90 per cent of the plants were affected with one or more of these diseases. How necessary, then, to use only seed from plants known to be free from infection.

Will disease, rhizoctonia and blight also reduce the vitality of potato plants over a large portion of the country and seed from such plants carry the infection and, as a result, the vigor and productivity of their vines and tubers will be lessened. Not to plant healthy and vigorous seed is to throw away money and labor and to invite disaster.

Many growers, through the use of certified seed, have been able to obtain large yields, and, therefore, make a profit, which would have been impossible with any other seed stock.

The certified seed potato inspection is carried out by the state department of agriculture and inspection which any one may desire regarding standards and costs of inspection may be secured through this department.

Nursery Stock Now Being Inspected By County Officials

County horticultural inspectors are working at present inspecting nursery vineyard stock for nematodes, according to Fred P. Roullet, county horticultural commissioner.

Most of the vines and cuttings shipped from the county must be inspected, but the rush of the shipping season is not yet on. So far there have been no condemnations made.

All vines found to contain nematodes will be destroyed, but vines found to be afflicted with phyloxera will be dipped. Dipping plants have been established at four county nurseries to care for the work.

All vines and cuttings shipped from the county must be inspected, but the rush of the shipping season is not yet on. So far there have been no condemnations made.

LIME, SULPHUR GIVE RESULTS
Soil Fertilization Closely Watched By Extension Division In Many Counties

Striking results have been obtained in some sections of the state where lime and sulphur have been used. In Stanislaus County, where lime and sulphur were used on 182 farms, the results were very marked.

How far this condition of soil amendments may be valuable is not yet known. System does not seem to give the same results as does the application of sulphur and lime. It is hoped that a series of tests will be made in the near future.

Many Make Tests
During the past year tests with commercial fertilizers were made by 244 farmers, most of whom made applications of a relatively large amount, one hundred and thirty pounds applied fertilizers on small areas, subdivided into plots. It is hoped that a series of tests will be made in the near future.

PLANS MADE FOR NEW CREAMERY AT RIVERBANK SOON

Growers To Form Co-operative Body; Buying And Selling Is Discussed

RIVERBANK (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—H. L. Klute, sales manager for the Food Products Company, brokers and big canners, with offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco, addressed a group of local growers and business men who gathered Wednesday evening in the First National Bank rooms to discuss the organization of the creamery at Riverbank. Klute dealt in his address with the buying and selling end of the business.

$4,000 Subscribed
More than $4,000 now has been subscribed to the creamery and the site has been given by C. L. Flack. The sum subscribed to date represents the subscriptions of 100 smaller business men of the section, but it is expected within a few days that a number of the wealthy growers in the section will purchase substantial blocks of stock.

As soon as the building is ready, building and operating the creamery, the past year and formerly in charge of the Marquette Creamery, will be in charge of the business.

Incorporation Applied For
To a corporation have been applied for, the company to operate under the name of Riverbank Creamery, Inc. Fifty thousand dollars is to constitute the capital stock, to be paid in by C. L. Flack, H. L. Klute, J. B. Smith and Harry C. Austin, who have been named as temporary directors.

The plan, practically as it is, is to have the creamery at Riverbank, and it is expected that the building of the creamery will be completed in the near future.

Bridge Next Objective
The next objective of the company will be to build a bridge across the river, and it is expected that the building of the bridge will be completed in the near future.

Cost Of Enlarging Oakdale Canals Is Reduced To $200,000

OAKDALE (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—H. Hartley, of the Oakdale Irrigation District has submitted his report to the directors and made an estimate on the cost of enlarging the main canal of the district so as to carry a head of water that will supply all the laterals. The district is entitled to 1,000 second-feet of water and the desire is to have the ditches of such size that the south main ditch will carry 600 second-feet of water. Hartley estimates the cost at $200,000.

Trainload Of Feeder Cattle Shipped Into Oakdale District
OAKDALE (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—A trainload of feeder cattle arrived here yesterday from Nevada, having been purchased by the Willamette Land & Cattle Company and will be fattened by them on their large range east of town.

State Regional Director Of Farm Bureau Speaker At Meeting In Reedley

Official Of State Federation Explains Activities Of Organization Giving Resume Of The Accomplishments Of The Year Now Coming To Close

REEDLEY (Fresno Co.), Dec. 22.—Farm bureau members in attendance at the meeting of the Reedley Center Tuesday evening gained in knowledge of the work of the state farm bureau federation when J. J. Deuel of the Kern County Farm Bureau and regional director of the state federation, representing the seven counties of the San Joaquin Valley, addressed the gathering and gave a little outline of the great amount of work that has been done and what has been accomplished.

Deuel stated that the national federation has gained strength at Washington, through its work in the interest of the farming industry. It is being given recognition in many magazines.

Marketing Conditions
To marketing conditions he attributed the lack of return to the farmer of his products and he stated that it is to these conditions the state federation has been directing much effort. California, he said, is the largest producer of vegetables of any state in the North and West, yet some vegetables have not brought prices that would pay the cost of production and marketing.

The consumer has paid excessive prices for vegetables, said Deuel, the spread between the producer and consumer being such that the middlemen were becoming wealthy, while the producer did not get enough money to meet his expenses. He cited instances where the price to the producer was 75 cents to 90 cents per 100 pounds, the freight to San Francisco not being more than 40 cents per 100 pounds, yet the consumer had to pay not less than $3.25 per 100 pounds. On the first of last August, he said, sweet potato prices to the grower were 3 cents per pound, the producer paying freight and all expenses incidental to getting them to market, yet the consumer had to pay 12½ cents per pound for those potatoes in the San Francisco market.

Cantaloupe Situation
Deuel said cantaloupe growers last year received an average of 19 cents per crate being the average price to the producer, out of which growing charges had to be deducted, while the price to the consumer was as high as 50 cents per crate. One grower who shipped four crates received a check for 35 cents, his net return on the four-crate shipment. The reasons for this he attributed to manipulation by commission merchants, who were getting wealthy through the transferring of the product from one commission merchant to another.

Establish Distributing Stations
As a result of their investigations, the state farm bureau federation has established 140 distributing stations between the West and East, having stations as far East as Boston, where fruit and vegetables may be shipped in carload lots and sold direct to the consumer, eliminating the middleman.

Saving On Gas And Oil
Through the efforts of the federation a saving of 3 cents a gallon on gasoline has been gained for the grower, and some farmers, save their year's dues to the farm bureau each month on the purchase of gasoline and oil for farm implements.

Saving On Utilities
Through the activities of the state federation, the speaker stated that $6,000,000 on electric power, $2,000,000 on gas, $1,000,000 on express rates, and $10,450,000 on freight rates. The saving in freight rates alone, he said, would be $1,000,000 on gas, $1,000,000 on express rates, and $10,450,000 on freight rates.

Botulism Can Be Avoided By Sterilization
Home Evaporator Is Recommended As Aid To Proper Canning

MODESTO (Stanislaus Co.), Dec. 22.—Directed by requests for methods to avoid botulism poisoning, following the death of two from this poison near Turlock last week, Mrs. Helen Baxter, representing the university extension service to-day gave two rules to follow:

They are:
1. Sterilize the food properly when it is canned.
2. Inspect the food properly when the can is opened.

She urged women to use the home evaporator which Mrs. Baxter, an assistant farm adviser, is teaching the women to make for themselves at low cost. She explained that by evaporating vegetables the danger of botulism poisoning is avoided.

It is difficult for a farm woman to sterilize food properly with ordinary equipment, she said. To properly sterilize it a heat of 240 degrees is necessary. The cardinal principle in this is never to taste the food to see whether it is all right.

Never Taste For Faults
When proper sterilization is impossible, the housewife must be even more careful with proper inspection, she said. The cardinal principle in this is never to taste the food to see whether it is all right.

Proper Inspection
"Proper inspection," she said, "means looking to detect any foul odor or any bad color. If either of these is found, the can is immediately discarded. If the food is all right in these respects, but it for several minutes is a faintly acidulous," Mrs. Baxter pointed out that in the deaths of the Delhi people they had merely tasted canned beans. When the beans were thrown away they killed twenty-five chickens.

Gathering Of 1922 Navel Orange Crop Is Nearing Completion In Tulare Co.

Season's Crop Is Estimated at 1,250,000
Boxes; Fruit Will Net Growers $2, Slightly Lower Than Prices of Last Year

(By Bee Bureau)

VISALIA (Tulare Co.), Dec. 23.—Gathering of the 1922 Tulare County navel orange crop is joyed from both the grower and the packers is described by County Horticultural Commissioner Frank B. Brown as wonderful.

The general crop was reasonably good for the year, about 50 per cent normal in quantity and running a normal in quality. The fruit was heavy, crop usually very small, however, brought out the quality better than expected and assailed materially in packing up to the point the fruit was put in boxes. The fruit was in quality. Brann explained that the heavy crop on the inside of the grower this season was due to a fine crop in the spring.

With the harvest well out of the way the attention of the commissioner's office will shortly be devoted to spraying operations for thrip and other diseases and pests. In general the orchards are commencing to show signs of insect pests, but the warm winter and rains may mean that spraying and fumigating will be essential to keep them in the same healthy condition they now enjoy. A careful inspection of the orchards will be made by agents of the office as soon as practicable to determine just what will be necessary in this respect.

SHASTA RANGE IS IMPROVED BY

UNIQUE METHOD Head Of Extension Service In Report Shows How Pasture Rotation Adopted By System Increases

Millville Stock Wins Attention

23.—Charles A. Hufford, farmer living in Basin Hollow, between Millville and Whitmore, has demonstrated how stock ranges may be improved and his work has been such a pronounced success a delegation of stockmen headed by Farm Adviser Parker Tatbot and Professor A. W. Sampson, of the state university, visited the farm to study his methods.

Professor Sampson, an expert on range rejuvenation, spent the week in Shasta County and is amazed at the showing made by the Basin Hollow ranches.

Installed in them. These countless are San Bonito, Inyo and Lassen.
Thus forty counties, comprising 90 per cent of the farms of the state now have the benefit of organized agricultural extension work.

In addition to showing the growth of agricultural extension service in the state, the annual report describes the results of the work along various lines such as demonstrations with cover crops, tests with commercial fertilizers, lime hila stock comes back from the mountains. Hufford turns them into pasture No. 1 and they are allowed to eat what they will of the dried up forage.

During this season pasture No. 2 is pastured to the limit. No attempt is made to reseed it, but on the following season the operation is reversed. The grasses in pasture No. 2 are allowed to go to seed, while the stock run on pasture No. 1 as long as they want to and as

The advantage of the system adopted by Huford is shown strikingly by the condition of the ranges on a neighboring farm, where the "rotation of crops" idea is not adopted. Acre for acre, Huttonfield last Monday near Valsilla. With it the farm adviser completed meetings, ten in all, which covered the entire vineyard section of the county and attracted in the neighborhood of 200 growers. The best methods of pruning and developing

Professor Sampson, this week, made a general survey of the open ranges in Shasta County. He marveled at the extent and productiveness of the Bald Hills in the southwestern part of the county. He declared he believes range conditions there, as well as elsewhere, can be improved by following Hufford's assistant, Harry E. Mannison, to this county next month, and the latter will spend at least a month instructing stockmen and farmers how to rejuvenate the ranges.

GROWERS TO URGE USE OF CERTIFIED POTATO SEED

Old Association Reorganized;
Plans Laid For An Active
Campaign Next Year

M'SWENEY AND SWIFT
HEAD THE ASSOCIATION

Farmers From All Parts Of State Participate In Starting Movement

SACRAMENTO BEE BUREAU,
Dec. 22.—Reorganizing into The Certified Seed Growers' Association of California, men interested in the production of better seed potatoes in the state met in Sacramento and mapped out a campaign of activity for the coming year.

Among those present were E. D.
McSweeney, El Monte; Carl Sledge,
Valley Ford; W. H. R. Fry,
Shafter; C. G. Patton, Riverside; A.
T. Hovens, Arcata; W. A. Beer, Arcata; W. A. Caldwell, Camanche; E. G.
Swift, Colusa; Pasadena, City
Farm; Bert C. Boughner, superintendent, and W. V. Shear, potato specialist, state department of agriculture.

The meeting was called to order by Shear, who briefly outlined the growth and development of the certified seed potato industry of California since its beginning in 1915.
He referred to the work of the former association of the certified seed potato growers, which had practically ceased to function, and suggested the formation of a new association with an extended activity.

The meeting organized by the secretary, McSweeney, and a temporary chairman and Swift, then addressed the meeting, outlining a form of organization designed to market commonly selected crop of certified seed potatoes.

After a discussion extending through several hours, it was finally voted to continue the old organization with certain modifications. The new association will comprise all growers of certified seed potatoes having already marketed potatoes in their 1922 crop and entering into contracts for future delivery.

Permanent officers were elected and named. The association was changed to The Certified Seed Potato Growers' Association of California. McSweeney was chosen as secretary.

Want Test Plots.
One of the actions taken by the association to extend the planting of certified seed potatoes was the adoption of a resolution instructing the secretary to communicate with all of the county farm agents of the state, offering in the name of the association to supply certified seed for demonstration plots of one-half to one acre at any or all of the different varieties of certified seed. A uniform price of 25 per hundred at a point of delivery in each community, there being no limitation placed on the number of demonstration plots in any one county.

All, however, are to be under the supervision of the county farm agent. In order that The Certified Seed Potato Growers' Association might receive reliable and tabulated data from which deduction can be accurately drawn as to the comparative value of certified seed in comparison with uncertified seed grown under similar conditions.

Certification Rules Adopted.
Probably one of the greatest achievements of the convention, growers believe in so far as the future of the industry is concerned, was the passing of a resolution suggested by Shear, that, beginning with the 1923 crop planting, no potato plants shall be subject to certification that have not been grown from certified seed.

Should any grower desire to develop any variety not now certified, he must first have known his intention by communicating with the potato specialist of the state department of agriculture and obtain his approval of the seed to be planted. Likewise, any person intending to grow a variety of potato seed in California must have the same approval in order to have his seed certified.

Required.
Another step in conformity with the desire of all the members of the association to uplift the standard of certified seed potatoes grown in the state of California was the adoption of the following resolution:

Beginning with the 1923 crop, whereby one of two crops are grown in one year, from that crop must be selected from the hills that are traced to the type of seed sufficient to plant an acre, equal to one-half of the total acreage, of each variety that person contemplating planting for his next crop of that variety.
Thus, in 1923, any person desiring to have his crop certified must select from a given acre of potato fields which have been grown from hills selected seed that has been certified.

Windsor Ranch Cow Now State Champion Senior

Windsor's Bessie, owned by Windsor Ranch, Bakersfield, Calif., is the senior champion cow, four-year-old and over, in the state. She started her record in 1918, when she won the title of senior champion cow in the state.

It should be noted that five of the heifers in the state have been produced by Bessie's milk. Bessie has three daughters in the register.

First Week Of Farm Bureau Drive in Tulare County Ends With Many New Members

(By Lee Bureau)

VISALIA (Tulare Co.), Dec. 22.—
The first week of the new drive for the Farm Bureau in the Tulare County Farm Bureau closes today with results that indicate the success of the campaign by which it is hoped to raise the membership of the organization from 2,000 to at least 3,000 and perhaps 3,500.

The first week was devoted to a large extent to more educational work, especially among ranchers, who were somewhat puzzled as to the technical terms of the contract.
The work also was devoted to the what by reason of the inexperience of canvassers, but these difficulties were overcome in the first three days and the drive continued merrily with about 100 new members enrolled for the week's work.

Work Paster In Future
It is expected the work from now on will be much faster and more accurate and the campaign headquarters will be able to handle a much larger volume of work.
